HOUSE PASSES BILL TO CURB NUMBERS PLAY

Measure Goes to Senate After Winning by Vote of 78 to 31.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 29—Legislation prescribing heavy fines and [illegible] sentences for operators of "numbers" gambling racket [illegible] of the Ohio house of [illegible] today and was on [illegible] the senate.

The bill, designed to stamp out [illegible] on stock and bond sales [illegible] the New York market, [illegible] 78-31 late yesterday [illegible] house reversed an April [illegible] of the measure.

The proposed law was drafted [illegible] Gen. Thomas J. Herbert, [illegible] the maximum penalty in [illegible] present law—a $500 fine and [illegible] months in jail—was not strong enough to cope with the racket.

Rep. Roy H. Longenecker (R-[illegible]) told the house "this vice is undermining the morals and decency of this state," while Rep. John A. Catlett (R-Richland) urged his colleagues:

"For heaven's sake, let's give conscientious law enforcement officials a law with teeth in it so they can do a good job."

Catlett said a numbers house operator in Mansfield told him he would have to quit business if the bill became a law.

Opponents of the measure contended the proposed penalties were so severe no court would impose them.

The bill is aimed primarily at second offenders. In this class a promoter, a backer or an operator of a numbers game would be liable to a fine of $500 to $1,000 and a prison sentence of one to seven years. An agent would be liable to the same fine and a prison term of one to three years.

The house deleted an amendment which proposed a maximum jail sentence of three months for citizens who bet on the numbers.

Before turning to the anti-numbers bill, the house completed enactment of legislation establishing a uniform procedure for issuing state licenses and for appealing from ruling of state bureaus.

The house judiciary committee last night recommended passage of a bill limiting the initiation fee

Votes of Marion Co. Area Cast for Bill

The measure is a drastic modification of the original French bill which proposed creation of a state board to regulate labor unions.

Strike Halts Cleveland Street Cars and Buses

Thousands of War Workers Thumb Rides as Entire Transportation System Is Tied Up.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 29 — An AFL strike today tied up Cleveland's mass transportation system, forcing uncounted thousands of war workers to thumb rides from friendly motorists or to walk to their jobs.

Not a street car or city bus could be seen on busy public square during the morning rush hour as the City Transit System's riders—averaging 1,315,000 fares daily—pulled their frequently idle automobiles from garages and created traffic jambs reminiscent of pre-rationing days.

Mayor Frank J. Lausche urged automobile drivers to "travel the main streets" and pick up pedestrians, and motorists reported so many people were cooperating that, on well-traveled thoroughfares, they had difficulty filling their car seats.

Although the system's 1,378 trolleys, trailers and buses remained in barns, a survey of key war plants showed most workers were on time or early.

City officials indicated parking restrictions would be relaxed on many streets for the duration of the strike.

In walking out at midnight, the unionists defied an order by their international officials and also ignored a telegraphed plea by Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson to refer their wage dispute to government agencies.

Request from Patterson

Mayor Lausche said the telegram from Patterson asked him "to transmit to the members of the union the urgent request of the war department that they refrain from striking."

Michael Garvey, an international vice president of the Street Car and Motorcoach Operators Union, said he received a telegram from Edward McMorrow, first international vice president, instructing him to "convey" to our membership that the deadline must be lifted at once, and negotiations carried on as the laws of our association provide."

"It's out of our hands," declared Thomas P. Meany, the local's president. "The men voted for it and the transit board broke off negotiations."

Meany said the union was maintaining its original demand for a wage scale of $1.05 an hour for street car motormen and conductors, and $1.15 an hour for bus drivers, who operate alone. At present street car men receive 90½ cents an hour and bus operators 97½ cents hourly.

Substitute Proposal

As a substitute, the union would accept a 40-hour week at the present wage scale, with time and a half for all overtime, Meany asserted. Most men now work about 54 hours weekly at regular rates, he added.

Walter McCarter, City Transit System general manager, has offered a 2½ cents an hour increase for each class of employes. He said the union's attitude was "completely unreasonable" and a strike at this time was "an outrage."

After an all-night session with Mayor Lausche and city and union officials, Regional War Labor Board Chairman L. M. Gill ordered employes today to return to their jobs immediately.

Gill asked the city not to negotiate on merits of the union grievances while the walkout continued, and urged a peace meeting at 2 p. m. (eastern war time) Friday. City officials agreed. The union attitude was not announced immediately.

NAZIS REPULSE ALLIED DRIVE

One Column Forced To Withdraw in Face of German Attack.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 29—Allied troops northeast of Medjez-El-Bab were forced to withdraw slightly yesterday in the face of two fierce German counterattacks, but further progress was made both in the north and the south, an allied communique said today.

(The German communique, broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by The Associated Press, said a superior allied tank formation which had succeeded in breaking into German positions northeast of Medjez-El-Bab was intercepted by reserves and thrown back to its initial positions with heavy losses.)

Fighting northeast of Medjez-El-Bab, where British troops have been threatening to break out on the Tunis plain, has been heavy and fierce, the allied bulletin announced. The allied forces were reported to have made some advance yesterday, when the Germans launched two strong counterattacks.

Nazis Lose Heavily

The Germans lost heavily in infantry and tanks in the first counterblow and the attack was repulsed. But the second forced the leading allied troops to make "a slight withdrawal," the communique said.

Balanced against this reverse was the progress made by the American troops in the north, where "some important ground" was gained, and further advances by the French in the Pont Du Fahs regions.

The Eighth Army on the southern front was engaged in very active patrolling, it was said.

Allied fighter bombers ranged over the battle areas, destroying a number of vehicles and starting fires in target areas, the communique said. Five enemy planes were shot down during these sweeps.

Bombers of the strategic air force meanwhile, encountered two enemy ships in the Sicilian straits and set one of them afire. Seven enemy fighters were shot into the sea from a formation which attempted to prevent the allied attack.

In the gulf of Tunis one enemy ship was seen to blow up and three others caught fire under another allied attack. Five enemy planes were shot down during this attack, the communique said.

From all these operations, two

CIVILIAN DEFENSE AIDS STORM AREA

Cleveland and Akron Volunteers on Duty.

By The Associated Press

Civilian defense volunteers in Akron and Cleveland aided police in maintaining all-night patrol against looting as northern Ohio slowly recovered today from the effects of a series of tornadoes.

The twister indirectly caused a fourth death when Herbert J. Sutherland, 28, a Cleveland Municipal Light & Power lineman, was electrocuted while repairing damage in a West Side neighborhood.

Also killed in the storm were: Arthur C. Cawrse of Cleveland, vice president of the Dairymen's Ohio Farmers Milk Co., as the tornado destroyed or damaged all the buildings on his farm near Oberlin; and Richard Paternoster, 12, and Anthony Fernbach, 9, Akron orphans, trapped in a barn which collapsed on a farm near Medina.

Ray Myers, police and fire department signal superintendent in Akron, said damage in that area would run from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. Safety Director Frank D. Celebrezze estimated Cleveland's damage at $1,000,000.

More than 100 persons were treated for injuries at Akron while Cleveland injured total 52. Two persons were injured near Bellevue and five in the Tiffin area.

JAPANESE FEARFUL OF TOKYO ATTACK

New Alarm Sounded, Air Raid Wardens on Alert.

By The Associated Press

Tokyo sounded a new alarm today with the assertion the United States was "making all kinds of preparations" to bomb Japan again.

Tokyo's forecast of a new American bombing assault on Japan came in a domestic broadcast, intercepted by U. S. government monitors, putting Japanese air-raid wardens on the alert.

"A raid similar to that of April 18 last year will be carried out," the broadcast said.

Australia—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced Dutch - manned U. S. planes bombed and machine-gunned two Japanese ships in the Arafura sea. Other allied fliers attacked the enemy in New Guinea, New Ireland and New Britain, and a single U. S. Flying Fortress fought off seven Japanese fighters and returned to base undamaged.

Burma — British headquarters said Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's forces beat off a series of Japanese infiltration thrusts on the Arakan front, along the bay of Bengal.

China—The Japanese are building a new naval base and two large airfields in China, a spokesman for the Chinese army told a press conference at Chungking. The invaders are alarmed at the increasing menace to their shipping by allied submarines, he said.

County To Get Bond Champion Award Tonight

Schedule State Presentation: County Chairman Honored.

The war bond spotlight of Ohio will be turned on Marion county tonight.

At a dinner meeting at Hotel Harding, Marion county formally will receive recognition as the champion Ohio county in war bond sales for March—the ninth Ohio county to receive this distinction.

At the same time, county and regional war bond champions for the month, announced today by the state headquarters in Cleveland, will receive recognition.

County Champion Named

The Marion county champion for March is A. J. Loudenslager, chairman of the rural division of the county war savings committee whose countywide livestock war bond auction last month won this recognition for him.

The regional winner in a nine-county area including Marion county was announced today as W. H. Evans of Sandusky, editor of the Plum Brook News at the Plum Brook Ordnance Plant. He and eight other Ohio regional winners will get their awards at tonight's meeting.

Ohio war bond officials scheduled to attend include Roy D. Moore of Canton, state administrator of the War Savings Staff for Ohio, and Phil I. Trounstine, chairman of the state staff, who will give a congratulatory talk.

Bredlow To Preside

Harold H. Bredlow, executive secretary of the War Savings Staff for Ohio, will be master of ceremonies.

Tonight's dinner and the bonds and medals to be given the regional winner are being provided by the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, which has sponsored the monthly award banquets for the last nine months. J. P. Sharkey, Marion division manager for the company, is chairman of the arrangements committee and will present the scroll and flag to E. J. Schoenlaub, Marion county war bond chairman, designating Marion county as the Ohio champion for March.

Mr. Sharkey has been assisted in arrangements by C. E. Sechrist, E. J. Pierce and City Schools Supt. E. E. Holt.

Approximately 70 persons have been invited to tonight's dinner.

Sales yesterday totaling $340,685.25 yesterday brought Marion county's total in the Second War Loan campaign up to $2,903,317, or within easy striking distance of the unofficial three million dollar goal the Marion county workers have set to reach by tomorrow, the final day of the drive.

A total of 9,352 persons have shared in the purchases.

The county went over its $2,533,000 goal yesterday by a comfortable margin.

PRESIDENT ORDERS MINERS BACK TO PITS BY SATURDAY

TOUR OF ARMY CAMPS ENDED BY PRESIDENT

Executive Returns After 17-Day Trip Through Twenty States.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, April 29—President Roosevelt ended a 20-state war inspection tour today with an idea that the youth of America, making use of industrial plants and military camps, might well give a year's service to their government in the post-war area.

He had traveled 7,652 miles in 17 days, checking up on widely scattered war activities and dropping down into Mexico to confer with President Manuel Avila Camacho.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters accompanying him the trip convinced him the armed forces and the home front factories were in their stride, but he was wondering what could be done, after victory is won, with camps and plants in which millions have been invested.

He had no specific plan or program to offer but he emphasized the benefits in physical condition and mental alertness that men and women in service and war-worker uniforms had realized in the last few months. And he indicated he thought their training should be extended to all young men and women in some form after we win the war.

Objects To Word

Objecting to the term "compulsory military service," the Chief Executive preferred to speak of a year's contribution of services to the government. Any program that develops, he said, probably would be only partly military.

The President left Washington April 13. When he returned late this morning, he had swung through most of the southeastern states, down to Monterrey, Mexico—nearly 150 miles below the border—out to Denver and back through the middle of the country.

He visited 11 Army posts, four war plants, and one Marine base, one WAAC school and one naval air training center. He talked with a dozen governors and at least double that number of plant executives.

Everywhere he went, Mr. Roosevelt saw action. He saw green troops in the first days of their training, and hardened troops just about ready for an expedition to the battle zones.

He saw the most minute facets of military training, even sampling three times the food the neophyte soldiers were eating. He learned how the Army schools its men for the multitude of duties they must perform, several times watching combat problems employing real ammunition.

He saw bomber and fighter planes on the assembly lines and in the air and a clattering factory rolling out 30 caliber ammunition by the carload.

"Off Record" Again

News stories on the early part of his trip were released midway of his travels. He went "off the record" again after parting with Mexico's president at Corpus

CHURCHILL, ROOSEVELT MEDIATE RED, POLISH ROW

Agree on Plans To Settle Differences.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 29 — Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were reported in diplomatic circles here today to have reached an agreement on the course to be followed in attempting to patch up differences between Soviet Russia and the London Polish government-in-exile.

Some sources declared a personal appeal would be made to Premier Stalin of Russia to cooperate in the move.

It was understood on good authority here that either—or perhaps both—the British and the United States ambassadors were scheduled to confer with Stalin.

The Russian government severed relations with the Polish leaders over the latters' request for the International Red Cross to investigate German charges that 10,000 Polish officers had been slaughtered by the Russians.

The London Polish government reply last night denied any Quisling-like dealings with Germany and contained an appeal for the "release" of Poles of fighting age now in Russia, and their families and thousands of Polish orphans. Diplomatic circles here held the response was "not very helpful" and was likely to be "ill-received" in Moscow.

Jap Soldiers Slaughtered All Chinese in Area Where U. S. Fliers Landed

Chiang Kai-shek Notifies U. S. Government of Autrocities Against All Men, Women and Children of District.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29—Every man, woman and child in the coastal areas of China where American fliers found haven after bombing Tokyo a year ago has been butchered by revenge-mad Japanese troops, official China has notified the United States government.

This horror of blood-letting was reported to American authorities by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and announced by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau who read Generalissimo Chiang's cablegram at a meeting of war loan workers in San Francisco last night.

He recalled the Japanese announcement of their execution of some of the captured American fliers — "those gallant fighting men, who were by all military law and precedent prisoners of war."

"Now," Morgenthau said, his voice vibrant with emotion, "with a deep sense of shock and anger, I must bring you further news. I have here a cablegram which reached me this morning. It comes from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Let me read it to you

"'After they had been caught unawares by the falling of American bombs on Tokyo, Japanese troops attacked the coastal areas of China where many of the American fliers had landed. These Japanese troops slaughtered every man, woman and child in those areas'—let me repeat—'These Japanese troops slaughtered every man, woman and child in those areas, reproducing on a wholesale scale the horrors which the world had seen at Lidice, but about which people have been uninformed in these instances. The dastardly execution of these American fliers, who were taken as prisoners of war, has made it clear to all Americans that we face an enemy who knows no codes of law or decency. The only language which such an enemy understands is that of the weapons of war, and in the bond campaign which you are pushing for the war effort our people wish you all success.'

"That is the end of the cablegram."

Lidice, to whom the Generalissimo referred, was the Czecho-Slovakian town where the Germans last June, in reprisal for the assassination of Reinhardt Heydrich, executed the entire adult male population, sent the women to concentration camps, sent the children to "appropriate educational institutions" and destroyed the town.

GERMAN NAVAL BASE BOMBED

RAF Hits Again at Wilhelmshaven and Mines Baltic Waters.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 29—RAF bombers attacked the German naval base of Wilhelmshaven last night and also carried out unprecedented mining operations in Baltic waters, it was announced today.

Twenty-three bombers were reported missing from the missions, which marked the resumption of large-scale raids on the continent after a one-night lull.

Wilhelmshaven was last attacked on March 22, when United States airmen carried out a daylight raid on the base.

A dispatch from Folkestone said that big formations of high-flying bombers, which may have been United States craft, streamed across the channel this morning in the direction of Abbeville and Boulogne, in northern France, indicating a resumption of round-the-clock pounding of the continent.

The emphasis placed by the air ministry on the night's mining operations was taken as an indication of a campaign to disrupt German submarine training in the Baltic and interfere with Nazi preparations for the next phase of the war on the eastern front.

The Berlin radio reported "enemy" planes had dropped high explosives and incendiaries on the northwest German coast during the night and said eight of the raiders had been shot down.

The Germans also reported East Prussia had been bombed last night—taken in London as an indication the Russian air force had been busy again.

German planes meanwhile, were over Britain for the first time in four nights, but the raids were on a small scale, the ministries of air and home security said.

Marion Couple Hear from Soldier Son Previously Reported Missing

Pfc. Robert W. Johnston Prisoner of War, But His Letter Doesn't Disclose Where He's Being Held.

A letter stating he is "all right and feeling fine" was received today by Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Johnston of 219 Silver street from their son, Pfc. Robert W. Johnston, reported missing in action in the North African area since Feb. 17. The letter, dated March 18, brought news that Pfc. Johnston was a prisoner of war but did not disclose his captors.

Pfc. Johnston, along with Pvt. Owen E. Hogan, now a prisoner of war in a transit camp in Italy, entered service on Oct. 21, 1941. The two trained at Camp Wheeler, Ga., and in March of 1942 they were shipped from Fort Dix, N. J., to Ireland and then to Scotland and England. They went together into North Africa in November in the same company with one of the first invasion units.

In his letter Pfc. Johnston told his family he had plenty to eat and said he could use some handkerchiefs and woolen socks. "Get in touch with the Red Cross and they will tell you how to send them," he wrote. He wanted to know all about the basketball teams and how everybody was getting along. Like all men in service he wanted to hear from everyone and signed his letter "your wandering son."

Private Johnston's last visit home was during the Christmas holidays of 1941. Prior to entering service he was employed at the Cheney grocery store. He was graduated from St. Mary Parochial High school in 1930. He has two sisters, Mary Margaret and Eileen both at home. His father is employed at the Marion Metal Products Co.

Pvt. Hogan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hogan of 561 North Main street, received word of his whereabouts early last week through representatives of the Catholic church.

War Summary

AFRICA — One Allied column forced to withdraw in face of strong Axis counterattack.

Petrillo Anti-Trust Action Is Dismissed

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 29—At government request, the second anti-trust suit against James C. Petrillo and his American Federation of Musicians (AFL) was dismissed in federal court yesterday, paving the way for a possible new action by the government in its fight to break the union's ban on making musical recordings for public purposes.

The suit was dismissed by Judge John P. Barnes, who last Oct. 12 ruled in favor of the union in refusing a government request for an injunction to restrain Petrillo from further enforcement of his order of last Aug. 1 forbidding union members from making recordings and transcriptions for the radio and juke boxes. He ruled the matter essentially was a labor dispute.

In the second suit, however, the government charged Petrillo's ban would destroy approximately 550 independent radio stations relying on recordings for most of their programs.

CALLS WORK DELAY STRIKE AGAINST U. S.

Roosevelt Declares He'll Use All Power at His Command To Protect Nation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29 — Terming walkouts of more than 70,000 soft coal miners "strikes against the United State government itself," President Roosevelt today set a deadline by 10 o'clock Saturday morning for a return to work or action by him to prevent interference with the war effort.

Coupled with his flat statement that he would "use all the powers vested in me as President and as commander-in-chief" to protect the national interest," Mr. Roosevelt appealed "as the friend of the men who work in the coal mines" to return to their jobs and let the war labor board handle the controversy between the United Mine Workers and the operators.

The Chief Executive stepped into the wage dispute between miners and operators after it had been turned over to him by the war labor board, which has been ignored by John L. Lewis and his associates in the United Mine Workers.

Mr. Roosevelt sent telegrams to Lewis and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the union, in which he asked the men in the mines to "resume work immediately and submit their case to the national war labor board for final determination."

Ignore Labor Board

Thus far, the union leaders have ignored efforts of the board to handle the case through a three-man panel set up to investigate the facts.

"The strikes and stoppages in the coal industry that have occurred and are threatened," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "are in clear violation of the 'no strike' pledge.

"These are not mere strikes against employers of this industry to enforce collective bargaining demands. They are strikes against the United States government itself. These strikes are a direct interference with the prosecution of the war. They challenge the governmental machinery that has been set up for the orderly and peaceful settlement of all labor disputes. They challenge the power of the government to carry on the war.

"The continuance and spread of these strikes would have the same effect on the course of the war as a crippling defeat in the field."

Voicing confidence in the patriotism of the miners, Mr. Roosevelt said he was sure they would return to their jobs when they realize the effect that stopping work would have on men at the fighting front.

No Hint of Action

He gave no hint as to what action he would take if the miners do not meet his Saturday morning deadline. He has the power, however, to order government seizure and operations of the mines.

Coal production must go on, he said, because war industries can not turn out tanks, guns and ammunition without it. And without the weapons, he added, "our sailors on the high seas and our armies in the field will be helpless against our enemies."

Mr. Roosevelt said he was sure the miners, with sons and brothers in uniform, did not want to retard the war effort to which they had contributed loyally and in which they, with all other Americans, had so much at stake.

After reciting some of the recent history of the coal dispute, the President called attention to the membership of the panel appointed by the WLB: David B. Robertson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to represent the employes; Walter White to represent operators, and Morris L. Cooke to represent the public.

Such personnel, he said, assures "an impartial investigation of the facts," to be used by the board in settling the controversy in accordance with law.

Charge Prices Advancing

Yet, his telegram noted, UMW officials have ignored the WLB's request that the case be presented to the panel, together with a request the strikers be urged to return to their jobs.

He said telegrams from some members of the UMW had reached him complaining that OPA price regulations had been disregarded and the cost of living had gone up disproportionately in mining areas.

"I have directed OPA," the President said, "to make an immediate investigation of the facts and wherever a violation of the law is disclosed by that investigation, to see that the violators

To Our Many Customers And Friends On This Day—Our 11th Anniversary

Until a few weeks ago we had proceeded with plans as heretofore to hold our annual Anniversary Sale, but at that time we became convinced that it could not be done. The scarcity of many commodities, the restriction and rationing of others, and the manpower shortage curtailing civilian production made it impossible to secure the number and quantity of offerings at the savings that had been a feature of the anniversary event in the past.

It is a matter of great regret not to be able to continue the anniversary event without interruption, but cancellation was considered more desirable than its continuance on such a reduced scale.

We have secured a limited number of exceptional values and will place them on sale at especially low prices. We suggest that you purchase in accordance with your needs. We definitely recommend against purchasing beyond actual requirements.

If you cannot buy BOTH furniture and WAR BONDS---BUY BONDS, the most important, the most necessary purchase one can possibly make at this time.

Two Ohioans on "PT" Boat Awarded Medals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29 — An officer and eight enlisted men of an American "PT" boat which sank a Japanese submarine off Guadalcanal have been awarded decorations by President Roosevelt, the Navy announced today.

Award of the Navy cross to Lieutenant John M. Searles, Leonia, N. J., commander of the "PT," was announced previously. Secretary Knox yesterday made public the other awards to an officer and eight enlisted men who completed the complement of the craft.

Those receiving the silver star medal included:

Lieutenant (j g) Alford A. Snowball, 27, son of Mrs. W. C. Snowball of Niles, O., and Emil Peter Stayonevich, 28, mother, Mrs. Mary Harnishfeger of Lima, O.

The "PT" boat spotted a Japanese submarine which was escorting units attempting to contact troops ashore. At close range two torpedoes were discharged which destroyed the enemy craft.

The citation accompanying the awards said that the "PT's" daring operation thwarted an important enemy mission."

PRICE POINTS TO DANGER IN CODE VIOLATIONS

Tells Broadcasters Few Can Defeat Program.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 29 — Byron Price, director of censorship, discussing the voluntary censorship code before the National Association of Broadcasters, said yesterday that "it would be a tragedy if a few irresponsible broadcasters among many should accomplish the collapse of a patriotic endeavor."

"The moral effectiveness and the property investment of every one of you suffers whenever a single wisecracking announcer seeks to make a joke of the code," he said.

Broadcasters, he continued, should expunge such dialogue as "Where is that record, 'Get Out Your Old Umbrella,' on a rainy morning."

"Your interest and your country's interest are injured whenever a single commentator anywhere, toying with the code as if it were all a part of a friendly game, tries to see how near he can come to a dangerous disclosure and still have a technical alibi if he's caught," Price said.

"That is not cleverness in the face of the enemy, no matter what the egotist may think of his brain-child."

Price acknowledged "the splendid cooperation of so many of you in the experiment of voluntary censorship."

Topsy Strikes

PUBLIC interest in and appreciation of the government's effort to prove that it is still bigger than John L. Lewis is centered now in the Topsy strikes spreading through the bituminous industry.

These are not strikes that Mr. Lewis ordered in his capacity of president of United Mine Workers. These are strikes that Mr. Lewis failed to forbid. Like Topsy, they are the strikes that "just growed." But Mr. Lewis, as spokesman for the men concerned, must be held responsible.

The effect is the same as if Mr. Lewis had ordered them. They stop production. Already, they have put the government in the position of having to appeal to union leaders in the coal industry to stop them.

The government, representing the people as a whole, is being victimized by friction between the leaders and representatives of management. The war effort, stability on the home front, the battle against inflation—these matters of public welfare are temporarily secondary to the fight between leaders of industrial factions. Those government officials who dreamed of industrial harmony if only management would quit being so stubborn must dream now occasionally of how lovely everything would be if labor leadership would quit being so stubborn.

When Mr. Lewis is on the other side of the issue, he is just as unpleasant for government to deal with as the Bourbons and Tories of recent New Deal ill fame, it seems. There may be a moral in it.

Adjustment

LIEUT. GEN. BREHON B. SOMERVELL'S blistering comments about Americans who think the battle of production has been won because so far it has not been lost will hasten an overdue adjustment of popular feeling about the war. The outcome hasn't been predetermined yet.

The United States, having built most of the war production facilities it needs, now must iron out the dislocations in production schedules bound to appear in an operation of great magnitude. Some factories will get ahead of schedule; others will fall behind. But on the whole, United States production will fall behind military needs. Gen. Somervell's speech to the United States Chamber of Commerce discloses that providing essential cargo for available shipping still is a problem. As chief of army supply, he should know.

Certainly, as long as Germany is preparing for a new offensive in Russia, with the outcome in doubt; as long as the Allies are unable to bring the battle in Tunisia to a speedy and conclusive decision; as long as our forces in the southwest Pacific are forced to remain on the defensive; as long as the Japanese are able to strengthen their hold in the Aleutians; as long as the Axis continues to hold the edge in the battle of the Atlantic anyone who believes the war is as good as won is guilty of wishful thinking.

The United States has done an amazingly good job with war production. It needs to do even better. Gen. Somervell's forthright challenge to those who seem inclined to believe it's all over but the shouting is well timed. This will be the decisive summer of the war, but the United States still hasn't realized its potential power in the making of the decision.

Thought-Provoking Anniversaries

THE first anniversary of the surrender on Bataan and the bombing raid on Tokyo have passed. They are equally thought-provoking, despite their dissimilarity.

With disclosure of the fact that the Tokyo raid started from an aircraft carrier, the American public is made sharply aware that its elation over the news of the feat has not been repeated. Tokyo, the vital target, has been hit once. That seems to mean repetition has not been feasible.

The tremendous difficulty of striking Japan where it must be struck is evident in the fact that the feat of Maj. James H. Doolittle and the men he led on the Tokyo raid has not been repeated. Like the defeat on Bataan peninsula, the anniversary of the Tokyo raid has a sobering effect. Japan must not be underestimated as an adversary; that was the original mistake, and it is still being repeated.

News Behind the News

Events of Last Few Years Indicate How Complex Post-War Issues Will Be.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 29.—[illegible] the world all right—but take another look at it behind the [illegible].

This war started when Germany attacked Poland, Sept. 1, 1939, and 15 days later, Russian troops crossed Poland's border cancelling Soviet-Polish treaties. Indignation in this country ran high against both Germany and Russia.

Three months later, on Nov. 29, the Soviet government renounced its non-aggression pact (1932) with Finland, and, two days later, invaded that country. Popular American opinion against Russia hit such heights that we collected millions of dollars of our good money to aid the Finns against the Russians. Anyone in our country who did not contribute was an enemy of democracy.

These almost unanimous public beliefs of ours prevailed for nearly two years when Hitler suddenly (June 21, 1941) turned on Russia. All our thinking switched diametrically.

Little Finland began to fight back against Russia, but we no longer considered her as a valiant democratic nation fighting against aggression. Her fight was the same, but, this time, we looked on her as a tool of the Nazis.

Opinion Changes

Indeed, events drew us the whole way around and soon we found ourselves also fighting on the side of Russia, contributing billions to her cause.

Only last week, we withdrew most of our embassy from Finland, presumably because she would not make peace with Russia. We could not afford to be aiding an enemy of our new ally.

All the while, we harbored the exiled Polish government which had been crushed by the Nazis and invaded by the Soviets. But this week when that Polish government demanded a Red Cross investigation of Polish murders, our Soviet ally practically declared itself about these people in our midst by withdrawing diplomatic recognition. The Kremlin acted quickly, without consultation.

This act seemed a shock to us, but in view of the above history, it was logical and natural. The only reason it appeared to us as a shock was because we had nationally deluded ourselves into false assumptions.

Russia's War Purpose

Everyone with an eye clearly focused could see from the start that Russia was in this war because the double-dealing Hitler had invaded her homeland, and that this homeland was what she was fighting for—not primarily to defend democracy or a new world democratic federation, or a quart of milk a day, not for the four freedoms, certainly not our conception of them, as far as Finland and Poland are concerned.

[illegible] publicity [illegible], however, have tried to [illegible] the propaganda [illegible] out [illegible] earlier which brought us and Britain into the war on the same side and to dovetail our ideals and our [illegible]. They did it so enthusiastically that they got us to believing that everyone on our side looked at this war as the average American man in the street.

Perhaps they even convinced themselves—until Moscow put them right. Indeed, Moscow dispatches say she might have acted earlier against the Poles in connection with other matters. Molotoff's note says straight-out that Russia wants Polish territory.

And is Molotoff wrong in thus preparing to demand Polish territory? Poland was Russian, Austrian and Prussian before the last World war. The treaty of Versailles restored her ancient individuality, but thereafter she always had trouble with Russia.

Stalin no doubt will contend eventually her eastern provinces are rightly his. It all depends on how far you go back into history which answer you get. Both sides get the one they want.

Complicated Problem

Anyone who can settle the boundaries satisfactorily to Russia and Poland has sufficient astuteness to be the leader of the world, but no one will ever fulfill that mission.

Now the Russians say the Poles are making Nazi capital by bringing up the atrocity matter. That may or may not be.

The far more important thing to us is that these facts regarding Poland and Finland show how mercurial has been our public opinion and how—whether high or low—it has seldom looked at the other fellow's side of the matter or understood his position. We too make up our opinions on a basis of our own self-interest. Every nation has, always will.

Certainly here is the profound eternal truth of international relationships. Here is the basis upon which the post-war world must be built. It is a basis of conflicting interests, ancient territorial arguments, racial and religious competitions.

The solution of our hopes to live in peace hereafter must be founded upon these human equations, these realities. It cannot be found in the star of idealism or in the skies of self-deceptive hopes, or by throwing away of money and food to get temporary conformance.

It is one world, but it is an earthy world.

Today and Tomorrow

Need Seen for U. S. To Play Prudent Role in Russo-Polish Break.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE solution of the Polish-Russian dispute will have to be worked out in London and in Moscow, and there is no reason to think that this is impossibly difficult. Our best contribution will be to insist that the affair be handled through ordinary diplomatic channels, and not inflated and envenomed by public appeals designed to make the United States the judge, the advocate, and the moral mentor.

Yet it is important that we should try to understand the problem. It raises the great issue on which a clarification of American policy is urgently necessary: the question of how far into the internal affairs of the European continent it is necessary and desirable for us to go. For it is just as necessary for us to understand the limits of our intervention as it is to make sure that we do not again relapse into an isolationist neglect of our vital interests. In fact, the two are complementary. We can play our necessary part in the world only if we define it so clearly that we recognize the limits as well as the extent of our interest, our authority, and of our power.

Crisis Inevitable

It has been evident for some time that Polish-Russian relations were drifting to a crisis out of which they would either become irreparably bad or much better. It was impossible to avert this crisis by the well intentioned display of abstract principles. In fact, the effect has been quite the opposite—to mislead the Polish government into taking risks it could not afford to take and to provoke the Russian government into forcing a showdown. We would have done better to have taken the unequivocal position that the boundary must be settled between Poland and Russia, that we are committed under the Atlantic Charter to the resurrection of an independent Poland, but not to the restoration of a particular frontier, and that the fate of Poland, the war against Germany, the common action of the Allies in Europe and in Asia must not be hazarded upon a disputed province.

A line like that would have raised among the Polish leaders no false hopes, and encouraged no imprudent defiances and challenges. Among the Russians it would have aroused no deep and old suspicions. Almost certainly it would have tended to postpone the issue or to keep it at the level of give and take.

In the dispute itself there is at stake something much greater than the territory which Poland, supported by France, won by force of arms a little more than 20 years ago. The resurrection of an independent Poland is at stake, and the fundamental question is whether Poland can exist at all if she is the mortal enemy of her two great neighbors. The tragedy of the post-Versailles Poland was that she was so constituted that she pursued a policy which left her encircled only with enemies. She could not come to terms with Germany or with Russia or with Lithuania or with Czechoslovakia. It is plain that there is no future for Poland unless she develops good relations with at least one of her great neighbors. A policy which does not seek that fundamental result is just romantic suicide.

Now, it must be plain to any detached observer that a relatively small and weak state on the borders of two great states cannot afford to have grave frontier disputes with both of them. Even a great state is weakened by holding border territories which contain a large alien majority: for a small state it is a fatal weakness. The security of a small state depends not upon armaments, strategic frontiers, abstract principles or distant and tenuous guaranties, but upon making itself compact and homogeneous, and upon conducting its foreign affairs without antagonizing its great neighbors.

Experience has shown that it is practically impossible for a government-in-exile to make compromises on any issue. The moderates are always at the mercy of the extremists because they have in mind the day of their return to the homeland. They are haunted by the fear that they will be charged with having betrayed the national interest. General Sikorski is himself a moderate man. But he is not a free man, because he cannot be sure that his government will not be overthrown by less moderate men if he makes any concession.

Therefore, the question which almost certainly underlies the effort to reconcile the Poles and the Russians will turn upon the constitution of the Polish government-in-exile—upon whether, while it is still in exile, it can be made strong enough to take the risks of recognizing that the disputed provinces are a subject for negotiation between Poland and Russia.

Measure Rainfall

GATLINBURG, Tenn.—Tiny radio robots scattered throughout the Great Smoky Mountains National Park area are performing vital roles in the Tennessee Valley Authority's flood control program.

Job Freeze Stirs Heat

Congress Resents Order, So It's Quickly Changed.

By JOHN GROVER
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 29—Hasty moves by the War Manpower commission to modify the "job freeze order affecting 27,000,000 Americans in essential industry mirrored mushrooming criticism of the edict.

Organized labor was sharply critical of the order's content. Congress looked with a jaundiced eye on its method. There were rumblings that indicated the labor groups and the solons were set to take some lusty punches at the order when WMC announced its impending revision to allow local U. S. Employment Service offices to certify "separations" from jobs.

Senator Austin, Republican of Vermont, is one of the leaders of a congressional movement to draft industrial labor. (Recent polls indicate the majority of U. S. citizens believe some form of labor draft inevitable.) Sen. Austin was the first to comment on the WMC freeze order.

Senator Austin said the order simply emphasized the need for national service legislation to be passed by congress. The WMC order he held to be merely half a step in the right direction, emasculated in effectiveness by no clear authority.

Source of Authority

In later amplification of his comment, Senator Austin pointed out that Manpower Commissioner McNutt drew his authority at third hand from the War Powers Act, under which President Roosevelt delegated his grant of power by congress to "assistant president" James Byrnes, who in turn passed it on to McNutt.

It is widely said in congress that this authority, if valid at all, was valid only indirectly—that the congressional grant of power was intended to curb inflation and was not specifically drawn to control the movement of labor groups.

"The "modification" of the job freeze order 48 hours after its issuance, in effect, nullifies much of the original order. If USES offices, which McNutt admits are understaffed, are to "interpret" the freeze ukase, Capitol Hill observers predict the frozen job situation will last just about as long under the heat generated by pressure groups as an ice cube in a frying pan.

Called Defective

Senator Austin argues that the McNutt order is fatally defective in that it is designed only to prevent war labor turnover, while ignoring the basic problem of tapping new manpower sources.

"It is not directive. It does not direct specific workers where to go, when to go and what to do," Senator Austin said. "What is needed is a clear, simple act of congress to make vital war manpower available without this vagueness and ineffectual halfway stuff."

Other congressmen were privately asking some pointed questions as to why the McNutt order was issued at all, and then so hastily revised. There was irritation that the order "muscled in" on congressional ground.

The impending revision was held up by some solons as evidence that the original order was set off half-cocked and unnecessarily. It was deeply resented in many congressional circles, whether its intent was: (a) to spur congress into passing war labor controls, or (b) to short-circuit congress by an edict having the force and effect of legislation.

It was another grievance duly noted and filed by a congress already seething with resentment.

Evidence of Sentiment

The temper of congress has been clearly shown recently. The house action in voting to abolish farm security administration, a New Deal pet, was one indication. The demand for congressional representation at the international food conference after the proposed exclusion of reporters was another. Passage of the Hobbs measure to make labor subject to anti-racketeering legislation, was a third. The OWI is under hot congressional fire.

These are no isolated instances, but a definite trend. Congress has been at pains to demonstrate dissatisfaction with numerous home-front phases of the war effort. It is quite obvious that the job freeze order did little or nothing to alleviate the dissatisfaction.

A Jap Is A Jap

Old-Timers on West Coast Sa[illegible] More Trouble Ahead If L[illegible] Yellow Brothers Are Pamper[illegible]

By DAMON RUNYON

THE members of the Be-Kind-To-The-J[illegible] band, who used to pour out their [illegible] sympathy for the Japan[illegible] letters of remonstrance and denunciation [illegible] I kept calling the Japs as a bar[illegible] and degraded race have their answer [illegible] assassination of our captured aviators.

They (the letter writers) said I pre[illegible] hatred, and I did. It must be a poor [illegible] of an American who does not hate the p[illegible]trators of the treachery of Pearl Harbo[illegible] abusers of our American men and [illegible] and the cruelest exponents of pillage and [illegible]der under the guise of war in all human [illegible]tory. The letter writers objected to my [illegible] the Japs 'skibbies,' a familiar term for the[illegible] on the Pacific coast, as it connotes some[illegible] low and vile. I still say the Japs are born [illegible]

They (the letter writers) did not like [illegible] I said that the Japs recognize no laws of [illegible]ization or chivalry in warfare, but they [illegible] demonstrated the truth of my assertion on [illegible] of battle in this war by bayoneting our [illegible] and committing other misdeeds of which [illegible] civilized people would be guilty. The [illegible] story of their dealings with us is one of [illegible] and deceit.

They have now added the deliberate mur[illegible] of gallant American soldiers to the[illegible] record. Yet, strangely enough, until [illegible] closure of this new chapter of atro[illegible] Be-Kind-To-The-Japs band was making [illegible] headway in spreading propaganda to [illegible] fect that the "skibs" were not as [illegible] printed.

I WAS told by the blithering sentimen[illegible] that instead of inciting bitterness to[illegible] them, I should write in more tolerant [illegible] though how you can be tolerant toward [illegible] sneaking killer, I do not know. I think [illegible] our misfortune that our civilized state a[illegible] our high code of ethics in war prevents [illegible] from dropping down to the level of the J[illegible] and fighting them under their own slaughte[illegible] house rules.

The Be-Kind-To-The-Japs boys were g[illegible]ting around to almost saying the poor [illegible] Japs were forced into this war. Their sy[illegible]pathy for those in this country that we[illegible] evacuated, which means interned, was po[illegible]tively tearful. (I hope they weep as much [illegible] the brave American aviators who died at [illegible] hands of Jap murderers).

Some folks on the Pacific coast would [illegible] you all about the gentle old Japs who work[illegible] for them for years as gardeners or cooks [illegible] chauffeurs or houseboys and say they cou[illegible] not believe any harm of a race that produc[illegible] such tranquil representatives. Others wou[illegible] speak of the efficiency of the Japs in raisi[illegible] vegetables for the market, neatly—and chea[illegible]ly—and many commenced to deplore the evac[illegible]ation of the Japs to inland camps because [illegible] had produced the domestic help and vegetab[illegible] shortage. They began to wonder if the evacu[illegible]tion had been a good thing, this, mark y[illegible] against the written record of the discovery [illegible] spies among the Japanese all along the coa[illegible] against proof that the most subversive eleme[illegible] which constituted a distinct menace to the saf[illegible] of the United States existed among them, inclu[illegible]ing the gardeners, cooks, chauffeurs, houseb[illegible] and vegetable growers aforesaid.

AGAINST this record, only recently, th[illegible] has been a movement to let some of [illegible] Japanese back into their old areas in co[illegible] cities, which has aroused protest to Washing[illegible] from citizens and officials.

It is agreed by all west coasters that pro[illegible]ably most of the American-born Japs are lo[illegible] and that some of the Japan-born may be, [illegible] that the return of one or both in these ti[illegible] would be courting an unnecessary danger. [illegible] would be dangerous even to the American-bo[illegible] Japanese themselves. Some of the latter are [illegible] the United States army and may enter [illegible] evacuated areas in uniform, but civil[illegible] Japanese of either class are not wanted.

In the camps of the evacuees, the attitude [illegible] the average alien Japanese toward this nat[illegible] has been reflected in haughty and conte[illegible]tuous bearing, flouting of regulations and co[illegible]tinued subversive sentiments.

They have made a sucker of Uncle Sa[illegible] They are better fed than our own civilia[illegible] and soldiers, and they are probably laugh[illegible] among themselves at us. Old-time west coa[illegible]ers who go back to the days of the battle [illegible] the exclusion act have a saying "A Jap is [illegible] Jap." They never trusted the "skibs."

IT IS the later comers among the west co[illegible] population who built up sentimentality [illegible] the Japs. Old-timers long predicted that [illegible] United States would one day regret permitt[illegible] them to concentrate in large numbers in w[illegible] coast cities. They are now predicting that [illegible] certain other places under the American f[illegible] where the Japs are strong numerically, a[illegible] where Americans consort with them and [illegible] they trust them as brothers, there will [illegible] a sad day for the whites.

History Key in Rhyme

WASHINGTON — The how-ignorant-are-youth-of-American-history controversy [illegible] brought forth a lot of verbiage in the halls [illegible] congress, some of it pretty wrathful.

However, it remained for bushy-haired R[illegible] John E. Rankin of Mississippi to "do someth[illegible] about it."

He offered his fellow congressmen [illegible] country at large "a little verse taught us in p[illegible]mary school, which provides a key to reme[illegible]bering all the presidents in the order in wh[illegible] they served." The verse is:

The key is either the name itself or [illegible] first letter of the intervening words is the sa[illegible] as the first letter of the president's name. [illegible] other words the first line would "transla[illegible] Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, M[illegible]roe, etc.

What I wanted to know was who was respo[illegible]sible for adding those words since Rep. Ra[illegible] was in primary school. I found out. Mr. Ra[illegible] modestly admitted that he was. Just [illegible] words he added would be telling, but at [illegible] the whole last line. He says he hasn't [illegible] yet to think about what his next word w[illegible]

Charlie Jenkins writes me from down at camp:

"Dear Joe: Somethin' mighty swell happened to me on my last army leave. I'm standin' on the corner, not knowin' anybody in town, when a stranger says 'Hey, soldier—how'd you like a chicken dinner at home with me and the wife?'

"Well, it turns out they were the kind of folks who couldn't do enough to help out soldiers. He'd invited two other fellows and just as soon as we're introduced the lady brings us a glass of beer before dinner.

"We had a fine dinner, talked till ten... Honest, Joe, I'll never forget their hospitality. Makes me feel good fighting for people like that."

Thought you might like to hear what kind o' fellows we got in this army of ours, and how they like to enjoy themselves when they get a chance to.

WAR SERVICE RULES ISSUED

Regulations Govern Employment of All U. S. Civil Service Workers.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 29 — To comply with war manpower commission regulations the civil service commission yesterday issued a new war service regulation governing all federal employes.

Daniel C. Whelan, regional director of the Sixth U. S. civil service region covering Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, said the order provided for the immediate removal of any persons appointed to federal positions in violation of the WMC regulations, and governed transfers within federal service.

The new regulations are:

1. The civil service commission will approve for employment in a federal agency any new employe who, for the preceding 30 days, was not engaged in an essential activity even though the salary or wage to be paid by the federal government would exceed the rate most recently received by such employe.

2. The civil service commission will not approve for employment in a federal agency any new employe who, during the preceding 30-day period, was engaged in an essential activity if the salary or wage rate (exclusive of overtime payments) would exceed the rate most recently received during such period by the employe.

3. The civil service commission will approve for employment in a federal agency any new employe who, during the preceding 30-day period, was engaged in an essential activity without regard to his preceding wage rate or salary scale, providing the hiring of the employe is subject to and is permitted under a war manpower commission employment stabilization program for the area in which the employe is to work.

4. Statements of availability will be issued to employes now working for a federal agency in an employment stabilization area under the following conditions:

A. If the employe's services are terminated by the federal agency for any reason, the agency itself shall immediately furnish him with such a statement.

B. If the employe is furloughed or laid off for an indefinite period, or for a period of seven or more days, the agency in which he is employed shall immediately furnish him with such a statement.

C. If the employe alleges his present employment does not utilize him at his highest skill, or that he is not being employed at full time, he may request of the director of personnel of a department a statement of availability. If, in conformity with such regulations as the civil service commission may prescribe, it is determined further that no satisfactory arrangements can be made for placing the employe elsewhere in the federal service, a statement of availability shall be issued.

If the director of personnel refuses to issue a statement of availability, the employe may appeal the decision to the nearest civil service commission representative. If refused here, he may appeal to the appropriate war manpower commission official.

D. No statement of availability will be issued solely on the ground that an individual's salary rate is substantially less than that prevailing in the locality for the same or substantially similar work.

Town Meeting Program Tonight on 4th Term

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 29—America's Town Meeting will go ahead with its announced debate on the fourth term issue via the BLU network at 8:30 tonight from Pittsburgh although several members of the local sponsoring committee resigned over the choice of subject. The specific question is "Should the President of the U. S. Have a Fourth Term?"

In a statement at Pittsburgh in reply to charges that the broadcast was being "used as a 'trial baloon' by advocates of a fourth term for President Roosevelt," George V. Denny Jr., moderator, said that the topic agreed upon originally was suggested by Republicans.

The speakers chosen are Gov. M. M. Neely of West Virginia, Democrat, and Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, with Prof. Max Lerner of Williams College and Sen. K. S. Wherry of Nebraska as interrogators.

All the networks are arranging special programs beginning Sunday in observance of National Music Week. Included will be a number of choral groups.

Youths Arrested For Country Club Theft

Four Marion youths were called before Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast in connection with the recent theft of miscellaneous items from the Marion Country club. They were called before the judge by the sheriff's office, which learned their identity during an investigation of the theft.

A locker room at the club was entered some time in the last two weeks, and the theft was discovered Sunday when some golfers made use of the locker room. The items taken were valued at between $100 and $150, and were returned by the boys, authorities said. The boys were released to return to school but were ordered to report to the juvenile court Friday.

RULES WIFE ENTITLED TO JOB COMPENSATION

Woman Who Quit To Follow Husband Wins Suit

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., April 29—A wife who quits her job to follow her husband to another place of residence is entitled to state unemployment compensation, a decision by Common Pleas Judge Louis J. Schneider maintained today.

The decision, reversing the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation's board of review and upholding the findings of referee in the case, concerned a claim of $162 filed by Mrs. Alpha Weaver Moore of Cincinnati.

G. F. Osler, plaintiff's attorney, said Mrs. Moore and her husband had been employed in Hamilton, O., but that when her husband moved to Cincinnati, she [illegible]

Sweden's Plants Operate At Full Blast for Defense

[illegible] Situation of Nation Stable Despite Foreign Conditions Unsettled by War.

By JOHN COLBURN
Associated Press Correspondent

STOCKHOLM, April 29 — [illegible] to give her army a [illegible] in case of invasion.

[illegible] country is enjoying [illegible] industrial boom, al[illegible] forced on her by [illegible] war which has [illegible] adjustments [illegible] elsewhere.

[illegible] of what Sweden has done is largely told in her general production index, which in the last year has risen from 104 to 111, after a fall from 126 in 1935.

Output in the lumber, pulp and paper industries is declining because of loss of markets due to the blockade, but iron, steel and machine tool industries are operating at capacity because of army and navy orders.

Situation Is Stable

A glance at monthly production indices shows the economic situation apparently stable despite external dislocating influences. The pulp and paper industry index dropped from 65 in January, 1942, to 56 in February this year; lumber export from 75 in February 1941 to 63 in September 1942; but iron and steel jumped from 137 in January 1942 to 148 last February and machines from 150 to 163.

Foreign trade porvides Sweden's economic dark spot. The "Foreign Review" issued here describes it as critical. This is partly due to a stoppage of safe conduct permits on cargoes from America, but it also pointed out that prospects for trade with Europe are poor. Swedish industry is heavily dependent on imports from America and Europe for raw materials.

Imports have been cut in half, and exports by a third.

However, armament orders are a hundred times above peacetime levels, forcing industry into a busy evolutionary period of trying to handle them along with the demand for consumer goods.

Industrial readjustments have been necessary. Plants have been [illegible] from coal to wood for fuel. This has caused a shortage of pulp and paper for export and resulted in the development of manufacture of cellulose fodder from sulphite pulp.

This [illegible] helped keep Sweden's herds alive by filling deficiencies in natural fodder, and many workshops which once concentrated on wood products for export now have been converted to the manufacture of gas generators, in which Sweden now leads the world.

Fuel [illegible] exports also caused the Swedes to turn to the manufacture of substitute raw materials and development of domestic raw materials.

New Sources of Oil

Plants have been developed to extract oil from shale and to produce oil from tar-rich tree stumps. Emphasis has been placed on expanding the output of the by products of wood, such as turpentine, alcohol, resin and plastics. Short of cotton, Sweden has expanded two staple fiber factories and started construction of another. Aluminum and synthetic rubber plants are under construction.

All of this is forcing a new degree of industrial self-sufficiency on the country. The proportion of home-produced raw materials used in the metal and clothing industries, for example, has risen from one eighth in 1940 to one third.

All this is aside from the approximately one third of Sweden's total manufacturing capacity devoted to war materials. Heavy industry reached its capacity production in the last quarter of 1942, and there is doubt that iron production can be maintained at the 1942 level. Pig and ingot stocks are being constantly depleted and the scrap supply is so scanty that plants using it must reduce their consumption 30 per cent, it was estimated.

The shipbuilding industry is humming, although handicapped by a lack of supplies, particularly plates which normally come from Germany. The navy has an imposing construction program under way, and 199 merchant vessels sunk since the war must be replaced.

A talk was given by D. T. Mills, Marion county superintendent of schools.

The banquet was prepared and served by the Home Economics department under the direction of Miss Madeline Reschpater.

SCHOOL CHOIR HEARD BY 600

L. G. Jones, Director, Presented Robe by Harding Group and Kiwanis Club.

The a cappella choir of Harding High school, under the direction of L. G. Jones, music supervisor in the public schools, entertained an audience of approximately 600 persons with a program last evening in the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school auditorium. The program highlighted a season in which the choir has appeared before civic and club groups of the city and won the singers the enthusiastic and merited applause of the audience. The concert, as in former years, was sponsored by the Kiwanis club, which this year assisted the students in getting their new vestments.

During an intermission, John Bryans, president of the choir, presented a choir robe to Mr. Jones as a gift from the choir and Kiwanis club. Mr. Jones responded with an informal talk expressing his appreciation of the gift. The robe is white with a red initialed stole.

The program opened with the singing of the National Anthem by the audience after which Mr. Jones directed the choir of 62 voices in presenting the following numbers: "Our Land America," Jefferson; "Children's Prayer," Humperdinck; "Behold and See," Ingegneri-Lundquist; "Dark Water," Will James; "Here Am I, O Land of Mine," Mueller; "My Dream Is of an Island Place," Cain; "Chanting the Song," Roth; "Lullaby of Life," Leslie-Cain; "Echo Song," Lasso-Widmann; "Were You There?" Burleigh; "Softly and Tenderly," Thompson-York, and "God Be with You," Rankin-Tomer. The choir sang a request number, "My God and I," Serger, and soloists for this were Arloua Luellen, soprano, Janis Jones, alto and Keith Williams, baritone; and in two numbers, "Mighty Lak a Rose," Nevin and "God Toucherd the Rose," Brown, the sopranos were Ruth Ann Rea, Arloua Luellen, mezzos, Jane Young and Eleanor Swain, and altos, Jean Robinson and Janis Jones. Completing the program were two piano numbers, "Tarantelle," opus 5, Johnson, and "Etude," opus 25, No. 1, Wollenhaupt, played by [illegible] Hunt, pianist for the choir.

The general committee of the Kiwanis club includes Harold Nussbaum, chairman, R. A. Garvin and Carter M. Patton.

WARN OF LONG PACIFIC WAR

Lawmakers Declare Conflict May Drag on for Years in Orient.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29 — Fresh warnings from lawmakers that the Pacific war may continue many more years — or "decades" — sparked a new attempt today to prod congress toward action bolstering American striking power against the Japanese.

While Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the senate military committee observed that a tightening Japanese grip on conquered islands was "extremely grave," Senator Chandler (D-Ky) broadcast an appeal to citizens to "use your influence with your representatives in government to make them in some way aware of the danger which the country faces from the Pacific."

Reynolds declared the Japanese digging-in process was "making a Tokyo of every island they've captured."

In a radio broadcast last night, Chandler expressed fear both government and military leaders failed to recognize "the seriousness of the Japanese menace."

Suicide Policy

"It is suicide, in my opinion," he said, "to permit the Japs time to dig in in the South Pacific."

Skeptical senators also continued seeking the privilege of peeping under the tent when the international food conference becomes the big show at Hot Springs, Va., next month. Senators Gillette (D-Ia) and Aiken (R-Vt) said the agenda announced by the state department for the parleys convinced them little of a concrete nature could be accomplished, but Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said it seemed to him the conference would decide who was going to feed the world after the war and how.

Ferguson also advocated a good "heart-to-heart" talk between principal antagonists in the synthetic rubber vs. aviation gasoline controversy. He offered to bet that if Undersecretary of War Patterson and Rubber Director William Jeffers were locked up in a room "to talk over their differences, they would come out smiling and with a solution to offer."

Patterson To Testify

Patterson is to testify Monday before the senate war investigating committee concerning assertions attributed to him to the effect that gasoline production has suffered through emphasis on the rubber program. Jeffers is expected to take the opposite track when he testifies Tuesday.

Another congressional probe—by the house military subcommittee—hit a snag while its members pondered what to do about witnesses who refuse to testify. Two declined to answer questions yesterday during investigation of war contracts, and one even refused to tell his name. Spokesmen said the full committee would decide whether to institute contempt proceedings.

In the war manpower commission, final ratification by the management-labor advisory committee was expected to put into effect a nationwide plan permitting workers to shift from one essential job to another for higher pay. WMC sources said Chairman McNutt would issue an order authorizing the shifts — previously permitted only in 70 labor short areas—after obtaining the formal approval and explaining the plan to his 12 regional directors.

Murray Calls Meeting of CIO Executive Board

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 29—An extraordinary meeting of the CIO executive board has been called for May 14 by President Philip Murray to meet what he termed the "grave responsibility" of rallying the nation behind a fight for either lower prices or higher wages. The meeting will be held in Cleveland.

Murray declared there had been "a complete failure" on the part of government agencies and congress to carry out President Roosevelt's order to roll back prices to the September 1942 level.

He said also that the administrative agencies, "seeking to hide their own failures," issued "arbitrary directives against labor which undermined morale with a devastating impact upon war production."

Congress, he said, has "demonstrated a complete disregard for the war effort" by rejecting Mr. Roosevelt's proposal for incentive payments to farmers for increased food production and by repealing the President's $25,000 salary limit order.

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The leaders of our Armed Forces in Training Camps and on the battlefronts have emphasized the value of Scout training in developing knowledge and skill, as well as courage, self-reliance, resourcefulness and initiative which are proving to be so essential in our determination to win the war.

I have always been a staunch believer in Scouting and now in time of war, as your Honorary President, I urge everyone connected with Scouting, boys and men, to see to it that Scouting is maintained at its full strength and effectiveness as a practical contribution to the war effort.

Reach out and make it possible for every boy who wants to be a Cub or a Scout to have a meeting place and the necessary leadership as a service to your country.

Ohio Given Federal Help in Civil Defense Program

[illegible]ent Valued at $3,000,000 Distributed in Areas Considered Prime Targets of Axis Raiders.

[illegible] at an [illegible]

By RALPH H. STONE
[illegible], Ohio State Council of Defense
(Written for The Associated Press)

[illegible] O., April 28—[illegible] considered a potential target [illegible] enemy raiders and [illegible] has allocated to the [illegible] emergency disaster equipment [illegible] at more than $3,-[illegible]

[illegible] cities and towns already received a proportion[illegible] of this equipment, [illegible] operated by trained civilian [illegible] in the event of an [illegible]

[illegible] which benefitted [illegible] distribution are considered [illegible] target areas. The seriousness of the situation may be seen in the fact that the office of civilian defense [illegible] department distributed the equipment to cities and towns in all sections of the state—no district was singled out for special attention. In other words, Washington believes the entire state is open to attack.

Equipment Distributed

Equipment allocated to cities includes:

Some 236,000 feet of two and one-half inch hose; 11,560 steel helmets; 67,040 gas masks; 6,665 folding cots; 1,105 feet of four-inch suction hose; 297 trailer pumps; 374 roof ladders; 116,800 feet of one and one-half inch hose; 20 extension ladders; 1,695 firemen's coats; 71,134 pump tank extensions; 92 front mount pumps and 206 skid mount pumps.

There are 148 other cities, towns and townships either designated for equipment or eligible to receive it.

The Ohio State Council of Defense, during the past year and a half has installed the machinery for a far-reaching civilian and industrial protection program. Equipment issued to the state by the federal government will further assist civilians in protecting themselves and their homes in the event of air raids and sabotage.

The need for civilian defense becomes apparent when it is realized that our fighting men overseas will receive weapons and food only if we maintain a strong home front. Armies have been defeated on the battlefield for lack of support from persons remaining at home.

I also want to warn that possible enemy bombing attacks may be accompanied by poison gas.

Col. A. Gibson, chief of the inspection section of the office of civilian defense, predicted a few days ago that axis war lords would employ gas when they believe the time is opportune. The OCD official said that poison gas could play havoc with America's war production inasmuch as industry would be compelled to shutdown temporarily to allow for decontamination.

Trained To Detect Gas

Several thousand Ohioans have been trained to identify the various types of poison gas. A majority of local defense councils have trained decontamination crews, ready to go to work the moment the first gas bomb is dropped.

In conclusion, I say that Ohio residents must remember four facts in the days that are immediately ahead:

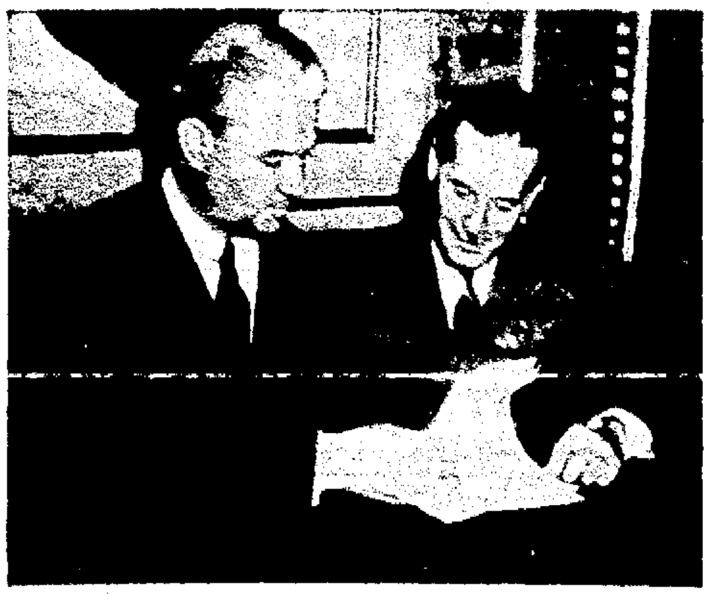
1. An endeavor to bomb the United States in all probability will be made this spring or summer. Although Atlantic and Pacific coastal areas have been threatened by the axis, Ohio cities and towns are much closer [illegible] miles to Norway from [illegible] probably [illegible]

2. Ohio is a [illegible] larger area [illegible] than any [illegible]

3. No [illegible] state [illegible] cities and towns [illegible] wheat fields and [illegible] crops [illegible]. There is reason to be [illegible] endeavor [illegible]

4. Ohio's [illegible] important industries [illegible] the danger of poison gas attacks.

I repeat that civilian defense is good insurance. Even though we escape a bombing, we will know at least that we had the foresight to prepare for any eventuality.



GOV. JOHN W. BRICKER, left, honorary chairman, and Harvey S. Firestone Jr., general chairman for Ohio, of the United Service Organizations conferring on plans for USO activities. Mr. Firestone, who has been Ohio chairman of the USO campaign funds for the last two years, has been appointed head of the permanent organization to supervise and stimulate USO activities in the state.

TURN IN YOUR waste kitchen fats and [illegible] the Axis [illegible]. That grease is urgently needed to make gunpowder.

MUNITIONS FROM KITCHENS! That's right. Used cooking grease makes gunpowder. Take yours to your meat dealer when you have a canful.

Invasion Fronts—2

BALKANS—Hitler's Uneasy Rampart

[illegible]

By KELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Writer

[illegible] April 29 — Allied [illegible] who are drawing [illegible] today for the second [illegible] a thoughtful look [illegible] when they were [illegible] Germany via the Balkans [illegible] opens the [illegible] in Berlin.

[illegible] are five coastal Balkan [illegible] Greece, Albania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Rumania. [illegible] three have been conquered. The last two, for reasons [illegible], have become partners of the Axis. [illegible] of them are headaches [illegible].

Two Fight On

Fighting is still going on in Greece and Yugoslavia. They are conquered in the sense that [illegible] centers, railways, and [illegible] of communication are under [illegible] control.

[illegible] beyond those areas, guerrilla armies are still [illegible]. Greek sources claim [illegible] on the island of Crete [illegible] bands are still active. In Yugoslavia, the redoubtable Gen. [illegible] Mihailovich commands an [illegible] of peasant fighters reported as being more than 40,000 strong.

In addition, there is a smaller [illegible] less active force of partisans, who are politically unsympathetic to Mihailovich. The [illegible] and partisans, authoritative reports say, have fought each other on more than one occasion. [illegible] unquestionably, their main [illegible] is to fight the Germans [illegible] Italians.

[illegible] knows that the appearance of an Allied Army would [illegible] a grassfire of rebellion [illegible] through the two countries.

[illegible] is the Axis position much [illegible] in Rumania and Bulgaria. [illegible] experts say Rumania [illegible] herself with Germany because she is more afraid of Russia. The rich province of Bessarabia, an ancient bone of contention between Russia and Rumania, is in the hands of the latter today only by courtesy of Hitler.

Informed quarters doubt the Rumanians would fight as much or as well against British and Americans as they have against Russia.

Further, Hungarian troops are in forcible occupation of most of Transylvania, the rich Rumanian province.

Bulgaria Turns Away

After World War I Bulgaria was equipped and trained, militarily, by the Germans. The Army is largely a reflection of the German Army.

But to the Bulgarian peasant, Russia is the goddess of Slavic culture and tradition. This powerful, semi-mystical conception is too dangerous for the Bulgarian government to tamper with. Bulgarian troops are used by Hitler to help police Yugoslavia. Beyond that, they have performed no service.

These are the circumstances that have brought Rumania and Bulgaria into the Nazi fold—and the two satellites aren't even on good terms with each other.

Informed politicians believe that if these were to be changed suddenly—for example, by the appearance of an Anglo-American invasion force—they would fall away from Germany like sandbanks in a cloudburst.

There are circumstances, not difficult of imagining, in which the Turks might permit Allied [illegible] and their transports to pass through the Dardanelles. [illegible] and then be in position [illegible] Rumania and Bulgaria from the Black Sea.

Dardanelles A Question

When Prime Minister Winston Churchill went directly from one conference at Casablanca to another [illegible] Turkey, he raised a [illegible] that still [illegible].

[illegible] and strategists speculated [illegible] talks with the Turks about the Dardanelles.

The British Foreign Office says [illegible] people who still [illegible], and not the least of these, perhaps, is Adolf Hitler.

The Dardanelles are the narrow, history-freighted straits connecting the Mediterranean and the Black Sea.

Rumania probably would not be difficult to invade from the Black Sea. The whole coastline and the country beyond, from the shore to the Danube, is flat and unobstructed. Mechanized forces would have plenty of elbow room.

The capital, Bucharest, is barely more than 100 miles from the coast. From there it is less than 40 miles to the great Ploesti oil fields, one of Hitler's main sources of supply. Having taken these two objectives, the Allies, for all practical purposes, would have put Rumania out of the war.

In another part of the Balkans, the Greek port of Salonika is no laughing matter today for the German general staff.

It was in the last war. It was a great joke.

An Allied army had landed there, and temporarily was [illegible] by the [illegible] [illegible] thoroughly [illegible] Balkan politics.

But the joke backfired.

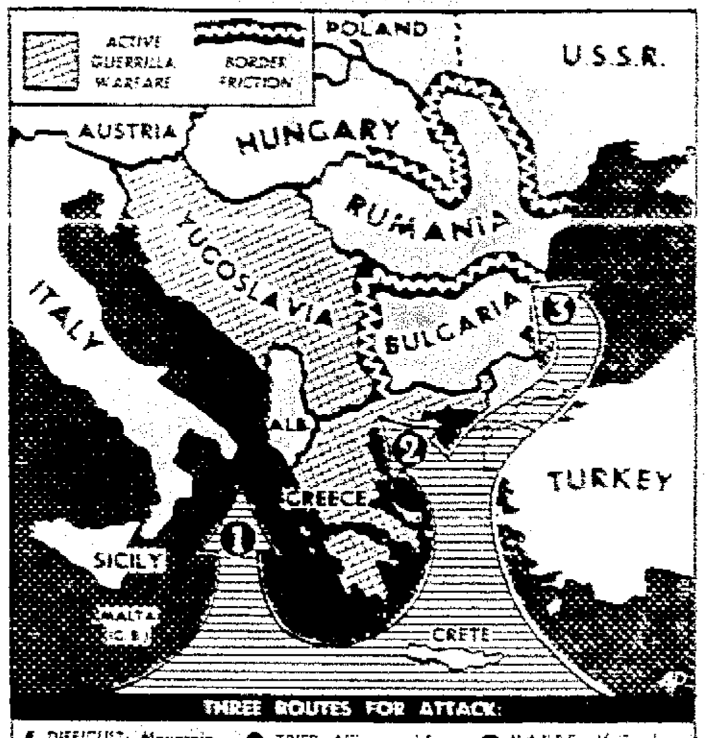
British and French troops, guided by wild-fighting Serbian mountaineers, drove up the Vardar river valley and knocked Bulgaria out.

Since history has a tendency to repeat, the Germans are very nervous about Salonika. Besides endangering Bulgaria, it would provide access to Yugoslavia.

Consequently, reliable information reaching Allied governments in London says that German troops, themselves, are occupying Salonika and the surrounding [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] in the Balkans.



THREE ROUTES FOR ATTACK:

1 DIFFICULT: Mountainous coastline has few possible beachheads, narrow sea gives Axis defenders advantage.

2 TRIED: Allies used Salonika-Vardar valley route in World War I to knock Bulgaria out; seems likeliest choice.

3 MAYBE: If Turkey opened Dardanelles to Allied fleet, Rumania, Bulgaria could be attacked via Black sea.

The how and why of a probable Axis collapse in the Balkans should the Allies attack. Counterbalancing the benefits of such a campaign are these factors: use of any of the possible invasion routes would entail cleaning out a network of strong Axis island bases such as Crete which protects Salonika; most of the Balkan terrain is mountainous and provides easily defensible positions; the distances to Germany are far greater than from western Europe.

MINE STRIKE

of the law are prosecuted."

Senator Connally (D-Tex) declared meanwhile that congress faces the question of whether "a dictator" in the person of John L. Lewis should be permitted to "override the constitutional authority of government."

Connally sought to bring before the senate today a bill authorizing the government to seize mines or plants where production is halted by strikes.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) objected to consideration now, saying that while the measure purports to deal with the threatened soft coal strike it is not comprehensive in its form.

"The only penalty provided in this bill is for the government to seize the mines," Taft declared. "So far as we know John L. Lewis wants the President to seize the mines. That's no penalty."

"We ought to write a bill that will deal with this situation, providing penalties against labor in the case of a strike as well as against capital. It would be most unfortunate if the senate was put on record on the John L. Lewis situation by the action it might have to take upon this bill.

With more than 10 per cent of the 600,000 affected miners already off the job and the rest reportedly ready to stop work tomorrow night at midnight, the war labor board handed the Appalachian contract wage dispute to the President.

Miss Perkins Issues Plea

Underscoring importance of the crisis to war production was the call of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins for the work stoppages to "cease at once," and the charge of Col. Roane Waring, American Legion commander, that the threatened full-scale stoppage "is a stab in the back of the America fighting a war."

Waring spoke at a Legion rally in Memphis last night and his assertion that "now is the time to determine whether the government set up by the votes of our people is running this country and this war or whether John L. Lewis is running it" came shortly after the labor secretary's appeal and the WLB action.

The board said its own orders and appeals for continued production during negotiation for a new contract had been ignored, leaving it no recourse but to refer the case to the President.

It pointed specifically to the importance of Mr. Roosevelt's decision, apart from the immediate threat to war production, by saying that unless this case is handled under established procedure like any other case, it believed the whole system of settling wartime industrial quarrels would collapse.

In a letter replying to the UMW policy committee that the WLB is "malignant in its prejudice" against the union, Secretary Perkins said she found no evidence supporting such an accusation, and said the war effort required an immediate return to work. But more walkouts were reported. The UMW committee had demanded withdrawal of the case from WLB consideration.

Confronted with two challenges—the UMW's refusal to submit its case to the WLB he appointed, and its demands for wage hikes above the "little steel" formula incorporated in his hold-the-line anti-inflation order—the President has little time to ponder the problem. Lewis declared unless the UMW demands were met in a new contract by Friday midnight, when a temporary extension expires, the miners "will not trespass" on company property.

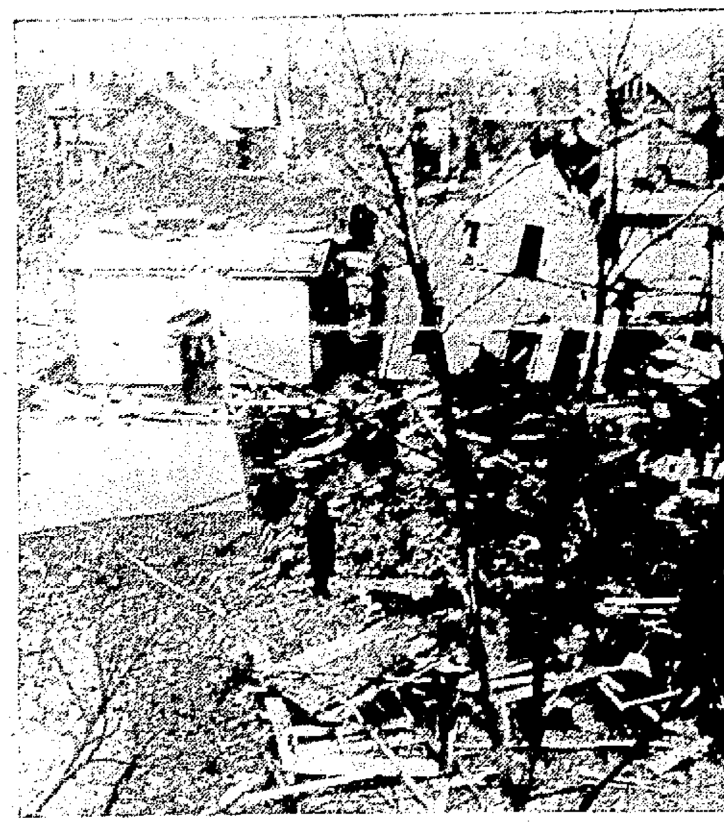
Stopping the steady flow of the soft coal which fires war production machines on steel, power, transportation and other fronts soon would cripple countless phases of the nation's war effort. Mr. Roosevelt's first action was expected to be a plea to the miners on that basis.

Should that fail, some observers looked for troops to be moved into the coal fields to assure protection of property and of employes wishing to work. Although there has been no precise wartime precedent for such a course, the President implied in handling two previous cases that such action would be taken if needed. Both cases involved the UMW, but neither carried the sanction of national union leaders—as will the coal case if the stoppage is called—and the President's return-to work orders were obeyed.

In this case, Lewis is asking that the new Appalachian contract include a $2 daily wage increase, $8-a-day basic wage, underground travel pay and unionization of minor bosses.

The contract covers most soft coal operations in six states, but is used as a basis for wage agreements in several other states.

By late last night, nearly 150 mines were closed with some 70,000 miners already idle.



HIT BY TWISTER. Scenes like this were common in scattered sections of Cleveland after a tornado swept the east and west sides of the city, twisting some homes from their foundations, unroofing others and splintering scores of garages. Three persons were killed in other Ohio localities hit by the storm.

U. S. Liberators Bomb Two Italian Cities

Naples and Messina Under Heavy Attack.

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, April 29—Two Liberator formations of the Ninth U. S. air force struck simultaneously in daylight yesterday at Naples and the Sicilian port of Messina and shot down five enemy fighters which rose to intercept them, it was announced today.

A United States communique said the Naples attack resulted in numerous direct hits on the Vittorio Emanuele mole and vicinity. One Messerschmitt 109 was destroyed.

One of the American planes failed to return.

(The Berlin radio reported from Rome that 41 persons were killed and 88 were wounded in Naples; three were killed and 12 wounded in Messina; and five persons were injured in other operations directed against Lampedusa and Syracuse.

(The Italian high command claimed that seven invading bombers were shot down by Italian fighters, four over Naples, two over Messina and one elsewhere.)

AFRICA

allied planes were reported missing.

(The Algiers radio said this morning the allies were threatening Mateur, a vital railway and highway junction. The Algiers radio has not always, however, been absolutely accurate in its announcements. Its broadcast was recorded by The Associated Press.

(The Italian communique asserted axis counterattacks were successful in fighting that continued along the entire Tunisian front.

(Broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by The Associated Press, the Italian war bulletin asserted an allied ship was torpedoed in Philippeville bay, and said that seven allied planes were shot down in raids on Naples, Messina, Syracuse and Lampedusa island.)

Tunis would be virtually impossible to defend except on a house-to-house basis, and it is believed here the Germans might withdraw their forces into the mountains and lakes around Bizerte and on to the narrow peninsula east of Tunis for a final stand. Both offer natural defenses far better than the open plain west of Tunis.

French troops, after rolling forward 15 miles in three days, were reported at the outskirts of Pont Du Fahs.

British armored forces thrusting southeastward from Goubellat were approaching Pont Du Fahs from the northwest to increase the pressure on this important axis base.

LAVAL MEETS HITLER

BERN, Switzerland, April 29—Pierre Laval, French chief of government, was reported today by sources with axis connections to be conferring with Adolf Hitler. Laval has been negotiating with the Germans since April 14 regarding further allotments of Frenchmen to work for Germany.

President Returns from 17-Day Tour

Christi, Texas, April 21.

This was his itinerary from Corpus Christi on:

April 22—Spent the day in seclusion with members of his family at the ranch of his son, Elliott, a colonel with the Army air forces in North Africa.

April 23—Traveled northwestward across Texas, through a corner of New Mexico and into Colorado.

April 24—Visited Camp Carson, near Colorado Springs, Colo., and viewed graphic demonstrations of a watercrossing, of infantry battling tanks, and of the massed firing of 60 deafening field Howitzers. Inspected, at Denver, a plant where the Remington Arms Co. makes ball, tracer and armor piercing ammunition; Lowry Field, which trains air force technicians, and Fitzsimons general hospital.

April 25. Attended Easter Sunday services at Fort Riley, Kas., where he was in the exact geographical center of the United States for the first time.

April 26. Saw a Martin bomber plant at Omaha turning out B-26 marauders and testing them in flight.

April 27. Stopped at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., the oldest military post west of the Mississippi for a mass review by 15,000 troops who had been in service a maximum of 28 days.

Watched workers at a Republic fighter plane factory at Evansville, Ind., building P-47 thunderbolts and demonstrations of how they fire and how they fly.

April 28. Saw the Army show of the tremendous offensive power of an armored division, with tanks, artillery, planes and infantrymen using live ammunition.

The deepest impression which Mr. Roosevelt brought back to Washington was one of a vast improvement in the armed forces, since he made a similar tour last September, accompanied by an encouraging acceleration in the production of the munitions they need on the combat fronts.

As on that former trip, he returned critical of Washington. He said he had found that the country as a whole had a better perspective on the war and a better sense of proportion than the national capital.

Washington Surprised

Speaking to representatives of the three major news services at a press conference aboard his special train, the President said the whole temper of the country was far more sober and far more intelligent than the attitude of a good part of Washington.

The people generally, he said, not only are in the war but also understand it. They do not follow Washington's example, he said, and, as he put it, magnify something of a tenth degree of importance and put it on front pages.

Furthermore, he declared, the tendency in the rest of the country, which he said is in contrast with the capital, is to evaluate correctly and give the right relative importance to world events and the progress of actual fighting.

Mr. Roosevelt made no formal speeches on the second half of his journey. Several times he spoke informally, and he told reporters he thought he was about right when he asserted at Fort Riley that the army had been going through its growing pains in the last few months, but now has grown up.

The improvement could be seen not only in the troops themselves, he said, but also in the housekeeping of the army—in the things it wears and eats.

Asked whether he had, as a result of his inspections, "any greater confidence in the new moves to come in Europe," the Chief Executive replied in the affirmative.

He said, too, he thought the country was catching on to the advantages of the training which men and women are getting in the service, as well as in war industries.

He commented on a marked gain in their health and physical well-being and on the way a portion of them who missed much of their formal schooling are now learning reading, writing and arithmetic as well as skilled trades.

Wonders About Future

When you see all the tremendous camps, with a capacity of maybe 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 men, the President asserted, you can't help wondering what will happen to them when the war is won and whether some type of training should continue, partly to avoid a net loss on equipment on which millions have been spent.

Of his talks with Avila Camacho, the Chief Executive declared he and the Mexican chief of state had seen eye to eye. He said he thought the Mexican president understands our needs and we understand his a great deal better than ever before.

Asked whether he had discussed the rationing program with the governors whom he met, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that he had not received a single complaint of a serious nature. In two or three places, he said, he inquired how food rationing was coming along. The governors took the position, he related, that there always are a few people who kick about anything and always some local situations that have to be ironed out, but that rationing generally was being well received.

He spoke at his press conference, also, of the value of modification centers at which improvements can be made in planes after their manufacture has begun from original plans. The result, he said, is that there is no slowing up of mass production.

He was impressed with the fact that some plane plants which depend on factories, like the Ford Willow Run plant in Detroit, for parts or subassemblies, [illegible] them in better time than they did last fall.

As for more inspection trips in the future, the Chief Executive said he didn't know, but that probably he would make another ten and still not see the entire war effort.

Although his movements were supposed to be a military secret after he left Corpus Christi, the President found crowds waiting at nearly every station and crossroad as his train went by. Since it has become known that he was on the go, the arrival of troops to guard the rail routes he used served as a magnet to people along the way.

Nourishing Loaf

e cheese combined with and seasonings make a nourishing, tasty loaf. Chop fine ½ cup salted peanuts and combine with one cup each cottage cheese, cooked cereal or bread crumbs, and milk, tablespoon fat, ½ teaspoon salt, if desired, and pepper to taste, also ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and tablespoon onion juice. Place in greased bread-pan and bake at 350 degrees F. to 375 degrees F. for 20 to 30 minutes.

Start off a meatless meal with a peanut puree and there'll be general satisfaction. Broil four slices bacon and cook ½ cup chopped onion in bacon drippings. Add ½ cup each finely minced celery and parsley. Cook. Add four tablespoons peanut butter to six cups hot soup stock. Combine mixtures and bring to steaming point but do not boil. Season with salt and chili pepper.

Savory onions and healthful peanuts combine to form a good, tasty vegetable dish, hearty fare to eke out small portions of protein foods. Steam eight small onions until tender. Blend two cups tomato juice, tablespoon butter, tablespoon flour, one cup ground peanuts, and, if desired, ½ teaspoon salt. Pour mixture over onions. Cover with a cup of buttered bread crumbs. Bake at 325 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

Potato Casserole in Menu

By BETSY NEWMAN

Even the most industrious cooks must now do more than they ever have to conserve foods. The housewife can't get the canned soups as easily as she used to so she must make her own from leftover bones, gravy, and scraps from her roasts, etc. Add fresh vegetables, and serve hot — and what a soup she has! We should also use fresh fruits and berries as they come in to make the fruit sauces we used to buy.

Menu

Baked Fish, Mashed Potato Casserole, Watercress, Cream Cheese Salad, Brussel's Sprouts, Fruit Whip, Tea.

Mashed Potato Casserole

Six to 8 potatoes, 2 tbsps. margarine, ½ c. hot milk, salt and pepper, ½ lb. sauteed mushrooms, 1 tbsp. minced onion, ½ c. fine dried breadcrumbs or rolled corn flakes.

Scrub potatoes and cook without paring in salted water until tender, then pare and put through ricer. Add margarine and hot milk, and season to taste with salt and pepper. Beat well and place in greased casserole, then remove portion from center and fill with sauteed mushrooms seasoned with onions. Cover with remaining potatoes, sprinkle with crumbs and bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) until crumbs are lightly brown.

One and one-half c. fruit pulp, 2 tbsps. lemon juice, ¼ c. sugar, ⅓ c. irradiated evaporated milk.

Combine fruit pulp and sugar and let stand to dissolve sugar, stirring occasionally. Chill evaporated milk thoroughly and whip until stiff. Add lemon juice and whip until very stiff. Fold into cold fruit pulp and serve cold with or without custard sauce. This fruit whip may be frozen in automatic refrigerator if you wish. The fruit used may be apricots, prunes, plums, raspberries or strawberries.

For a dessert that's light yet nutritious and different from the ordinary, try Florida Meringues, a favorite with a famous Palm Beach hostess. Gradually add ½ cup corn syrup, beating all the time until mixture forms peaks. Cover baking sheet with waxed paper, and pile mixture in four mounds on baking sheet. Marion Woman Born on Easter Marks First "Easter Birthday" in 56 Years

Vagary of Calendar Shows It Falls on April 25 Only Once Each Century; Changes Considered.

A Marion woman born on Easter 1886 celebrated her first Easter birthday anniversary last Sunday, a circumstance resulting from the fact that Easter Sunday falls on April 25 only once in a century.

She is Mrs. Emma Miller of 450 Lee street, who was born April 25, 1886 and who before last Sunday rounded out 56 birthday anniversaries without the event falling on Easter.

April 25 is the latest date on which Easter may fall and happens to be the date for Easter but once in every century.

Mrs. Miller, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Small, was born near Ironton, O., in Lawrence county and was the ninth of a family of 12 children. The family moved from Lawrence county to Marion when Mrs. Miller was 14.

Quiet Observance

With her husband, Commodore Miller, an employe of the Erie Railroad Co., Mrs. Miller celebrated the day Sunday quietly beginning with an Easter sunrise service at the Presbyterian church on Lee street, attending church service and dining at home. The Millers have no children.

Under the present system of calculation by means of which the Easter date is set, a child born on Easter this year could not celebrate his anniversary on Easter until the year 2038. But if plans are carried out for the establishment of Easter on a definite Sunday in April, and if the day chosen were to be the last Sunday, Mrs. Miller might celebrate her anniversary on Easter again in this century.

With Easter occurring on the late date this year comes renewed interest on the part of churchmen as well as business leaders toward stabilization of this "wandering" feast-day.

How Easter Is Established

The rules by which Easter is established were passed in 325 A. D. by the Council of Nicaea. By that decision, Easter falls on the first Sunday after the fourteenth day of the moon falling on or after the spring equinox, the first day of spring.

The reason back of this method of selecting the Easter date is based on the celebration of the Jewish Passover, Christ having been at the Passover in Jerusalem when he was crucified.

Not only business and educational organizations have found the "wandering" Easter a severe handicap but churches as well are finding this dislocation difficult to reconcile with their general church activities and programs.

Steps have already been taken by churchmen toward the establishment of Easter on a definite Sunday in April.

Harding Baseball Practice Started

Only One Letterman Back from 1942 Squad; 4 Galion Games Booked.

With only one letterman from last year's squad returning, Harding High school's baseball team held the first practice of the 1943 season at Lincoln park Tuesday afternoon under the direction of Coaches Vic Dorris and Joe Petrich.

On the surface this year's edition appears inexperienced but it may possess potential baseball ability. Don Kay, southpaw pitcher from last year's team, is the only returning letterman, although Jim Bowers, catcher, and Bob Virden, outfielder, were members of the successful 1942 aggregation.

Dick Mulvaine, all-N.C.O. basketball forward last winter, is a likely looking prospect for the team's right handed flinger. Mulvaine, in addition to his mound dependabilities, shows some natural slugging abilities at the plate and thus may be used to double as an outfielder. Elvin Beach, sophomore center for next fall's grid squad, may receive a starting assignment as catcher or first baseman. Of the 15 boys that came out for Tuesday night's practice, the only other horsehider that might be termed as first nine material is Don Schaadt, a sophomore.

Tuesday night's workout consisted entirely of batting, infield sisted entirely of batting, infield and outfield drill on fundamentals. Dorris instructed the boys at the plate and on infield work while Petrich worked with the outer gardeners. The potentialities of the 15 prospects with the wood and in fielding were studied by the mentors at Tuesday's drill.

Last night, with the addition of several new diamond hopefuls to the ranks, Dorris stressed team strategy and individual play. The main part of the practices has been devoted to hitting and the same will be true in the future.

Because of the comparatively small number of boys trying out at the initial practice, Dorris has instituted a new plan that will allow junior high school baseballers to play on the Harding squad. The three junior high principals have approved the plan and already three boys from both Central and Vernon have announced their intention of trying out. Interested Edison students were to be contacted today. These junior high hopefuls underwent the necessary batting and fielding tests at last night's rehearsal.

All Games With Galion

Prior to the state baseball tournament the Prexies will play only four games, all with Galion. These contests will be May 6 and May 10. Both will be doubleheaders, the first being played at Galion and the second a return twin bill at Lincoln park in Marion. Galion and Harding are the only two N.C.O. schools playing baseball this spring.

To Enter Tourney

The Harding nine will enter the annual district tourney May 13 at Columbus, to be played probably on the Ohio State university diamond. In former years President teams participated in district tournaments at Lima or Findlay. However, this year because of sports-plaguing transportation difficulties and rationing, Columbus was chosen, due to its relative proximity and convenience.

Harding's 1942 baseballers, under the tutelage of Bill Williams, advanced to the semi-finals of the state tournament only to be ousted by a strong Greenfield McClain nine. Prominent factors in that team's success were Harold Jenkins, Fritz Ruhl, Dick Cleary and LeRoy Harvey. All four of these boys were expected to return this year. However, Harvey was drafted, Ruhl joined the Navy, Cleary is in the Army Air corps and Jenkins is employed by a local concern. A Prexie fan might well say "as Jenkins, Harvey, Cleary and Ruhl go, so goes Harding," but the traditional baseball spirit in this year's youngsters will try to prove that statement wrong.

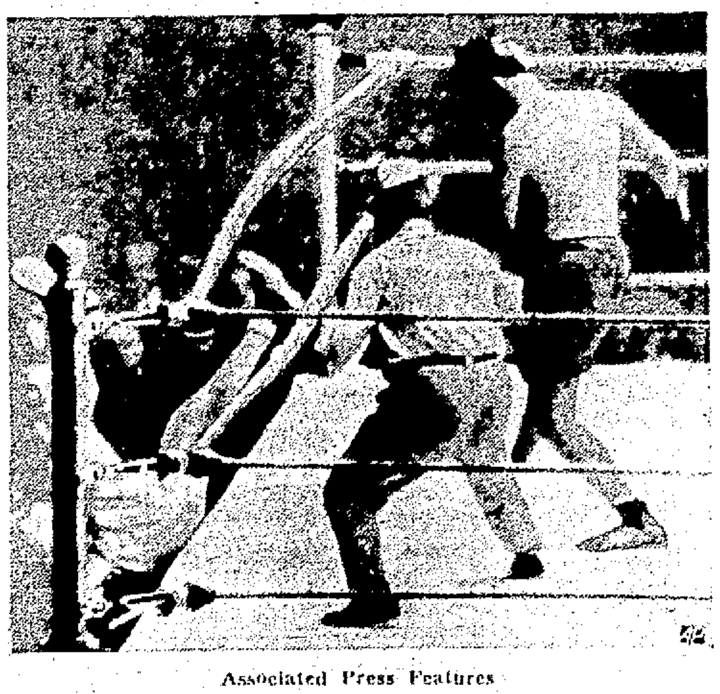
Dempsey Sent Sprawling by Firpo



Associated Press Features

ON SEPT. 14, 1923, more than 85,000 fight fans saw Jack Dempsey defend his heavyweight championship against Luis Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas, in the ring's fastest, fiercest and most spectacular battle. Although the bout lasted only 3 minutes, 57 seconds, Dempsey was floored twice and knocked through the ropes in the first round. The Manassa mauler in turn sent Firpo down seven times in the first round and twice in the second before the knockout blow.

Fleet Lets 'Em Look Him Over

By SID FEDER
AP Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, April 29—The baseball bug busted into the conversation on racing in general and the Derby in particular like a dill pickle popping out of the middle of a chocolate fudge sundae.

Just what a baseball bug was doing in the middle of all the jam-packed hotel lobby and street-corner horse hysteria in Derbyville today will have to remain a major mystery, but you had to admit he had something more than just a vague idea.

"That Count Fleet," he reasoned, "is just like the Yankees used to be in their batting practices before a World Series. The Count's a real fine horse, and everybody else in the race knows it. The Yankees were murderers' row in those days, a few years back, and every team they tangled with knew it.

"But when they took their cuts during batting practice, they always made sure the fellows on the other side were watching them. Then they put on their show. Every guy would step up and belt that apple out of the lot. By the time they finished, the other guys were shuddering.

"Now, I'm not saying the other horses in the Kentucky Derby Saturday are scared to death of the Count. But when he took that workout day before yesterday over the full mile and a quarter, he took it right out there between races, where everybody could see him. I'd be willing to bet the rest of the trainers and owners weren't feeling any better at what they saw. And how about that morning blowout he took on the track last week? It was advertised all over the place. Did you see how just about every other trainer came over to the grandstand to watch him? They weren't any too happy."

The guy just about hit the bulls-eye. There are going to be nine or ten other horses in the $75,000 scramble Saturday, but only one of them has ever beaten the Count in the 17 starts of his career. This was Gold Shower last summer, and that was regarded as an accident. And when the Count turned in his 2:07 workout, there wasn't one of them who didn't admit the Fleet was "in," or well on the way, anyway.

Kenton Women's Bowling League Elects Officers

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., April 29—Miss Lavina Shultz, circulation manager at The News, was elected president of the Kenton Women's Bowling league at the annual dinner meeting of the eight-team loop this week.

Mrs. Gladys Ritzler was named secretary; and Elinore Lloyd, treasurer.

Prize money was distributed and Miss Juanita Schindewolf was appointed chairman of a committee to plan details of the keglers' annual summer picnic. The Champion Equipment club team won a major share of the prize money by placing high in the number of games won during the season, and by smashing out the season's best game and match totals.

American Association Opens Season Today

COLUMBUS, O., April 29—The American Association baseball league opens its 1943 schedule today and tonight with the same eight teams that started the circuit 42 years ago slated for action.

The opening schedule:
Louisville at Columbus.
Indianapolis at Toledo (night).
Kansas City at St. Paul.
Milwaukee at Minneapolis.

BOUDREAU BELIEVES INDIANS' HITTING WILL COME ALONG

With 5 Wins in 7 Games Tribe Takes Over Second Place in League.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 29—Manager Lou Boudreau isn't one to fret over the Cleveland Indians' lack of base hits so early in the season. The Tribe has won five of its first seven games and is in second place in the American league, bearing out the youthful pilot's prediction that his club will be the one to beat.

"Our hitting will come along," he declared earnestly today. "This is the disadvantage of training in the north. Why, we only had a couple of weeks of spasmodic playing, and over the same period in the south we'd have been playing every day."

What cheers Boudreau are the five good pitching jobs by his "big six" mound corps, only two of whose members have not yet run up their first victories.

Two of those wins were provided by Jim Bagby, son of the old-time Cleveland hurling star. The young Sarge beat Detroit in the opener on three hits, 1 to 0, driving home the only run of the game with a fly ball in the ninth. He beat Detroit again, 4 to 1, tripling home two big runs. Mel Harder, Vern Kennedy and Al Smith have been the other winners.

"Bagby, Harder, Kennedy, Smith, Chubby Dean and Al Milnar—they, I hope, will make up our big six pitching staff," Boudreau said. "And we've got Ray Poat and Paul Calvert and Earl Cenier, and some other pitchers who may go great for us."

Boudreau laughs at reports he is slowing up—at the age of 25. "Maybe it's because I keep my ankles wrapped in tape all the time," he grinned. "But I've always had them wrapped, even when I was playing at Illinois."

Vander Meer Tries for Second Victory

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, April 29—Johnny Vander Meer, trying for his second win in three starts, is the Cincinnati pitcher today as the Reds meet Pittsburgh in the final of their three-game series. Hank Gornicki is the opposition.

Elmer Riddle and Joe Beggs pulled the Reds out of their three-game losing streak yesterday with a 2-1 job on the Pirates. Beggs finished the ninth when Elmer loaded the bases with two outs.

The Reds scored all their runs in the fourth. Eddie Miller opened with a single but was forced by Max Marshall. Frank McCormick and Gee Walker singled. After an infield play on which Marshall scored, Ray Mueller got a two-run single.

ARMY REJECTS BOXER

By The Associated Press

KITTANNING, Pa., April 29—Jackie Wilson, former NBA featherweight boxing champion, has been rejected for Army service because of a perforated ear drum, it was learned here today. Wilson, who lives in nearby Leechburg, was called up for induction last week.

Draft Holds Fate of League

Ray Mack of Indians Kept in 1-A; Others Take Physicals.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American league's pennant [illegible] in the hands of the draft authorities today.

It has been right within their reach all along, of course, and all the pennant predictions this spring were hedged with "ifs" and "buts" covering the possibility of the loss of key players by contending clubs.

However, the matter is down to cases now. Today shortstop George Stirnweiss of the New York Yankees undergoes an induction examination at Hartford, Conn., and last night it was disclosed that an appeals board at Mansfield, O., had retained second baseman Ray Mack of the Cleveland Indians in class 1-A.

Mack, married on Oct. 16, 1940, the date of the first draft registration, is the father of an 18-months-old daughter and expects another child this summer. The Indians had expected him to be deferred by the selective service ruling that fathers of children born before last Sept. 15 would not be called until the supply of single and childless married men had been exhausted.

Another Appeal Possible

The appeals board said its decision was not unanimous, leaving Mack the right to take his case to the presidential board.

Stirnweiss, a bridegroom of about six weeks, is understood to have stomach ulcers and Yankee spokesmen have said he was rejected for this reason when he tried to become a naval aviation cadet last winter.

The pace-setting Yankees have played five games, winning four, and Stirnweiss has hit safely in every contest for a batting average of .455 to show that even [illegible] he is as valuable to the club as any veteran. Yesterday the Yankees shut out the Boston Red Sox, 5-0, with Ernie Bonham pitching six-hit ball. Stirnweiss made three of New York's eight hits, scored one run and batted in another.

Cleveland took over undisputed possession of second place as Lefty Al Smith shut out the Chicago White Sox, 2-0. Smith gave nine hits to the six his teammates obtained off Bill Dietrich, but the Indians bunched three singles and two stolen bases in the first inning to get their runs.

Senators Move Up

The Washington Senators, who moved into third place as Ewald Pyle pitched them to a 3-0 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics, also suffered a draft blow when infielder Gerry Priddy was summoned to New York for his physical examination.

The Detroit Tigers, making their delayed opening at home before 17,943 fans, stopped the St. Louis Browns, 4-2, with Tommy Bridges and John Gorsica combining to hold the Browns to five hits. Bridges contributed two timely singles to his own victory.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals lost their contest with the Chicago Cubs, 4-0, on four errors and the tight seven-hit hurling of Hiram Bithorn, the Bruins' Puerto Rican righthander.

There were nine errors in the Brooklyn Dodgers affair with the Philadelphia Phillies and Brooklyn's National league leaders finally obtained a 4-3 decision with an unearned run in the tenth.

They had 2,470 fans at Shibe park.

The New York Giants' deal for Ernie Lombardi boomeranged as Connie Ryan, the infielder they cast off Tuesday, came through with a three-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Boston Braves a 3-2 victory. The Giants got one run across in the ninth but Lombardi ended the game as a pinch-hitter by grounding into a double play.

The Cincinnati Reds beat Pittsburgh, 3-1, with Elmer Riddle holding the Pirates to five hits, although Joe Beggs had to get the final out for him in the ninth.

Cordoza Won't Argue About This Whipping

By The Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 29—Manuel Ortiz still is the world's bantamweight champ and you won't hear even a feeble protest from Lupe Cordoza.

Lupe, unconvinced when he lost because of a badly cut eye the first time they met, was knocked out by Ortiz in one minute and seven seconds of the sixth round last night. Each weighed 118.

The El Centro, Calif., Mexican climbed on Cordoza from the opening bell. Cordoza took the count on the hands and knees, too weak even to shake his head.

The fight drew a crowd of 3,000.

SCHEDULE TWO GAMES

CINCINNATI, April 29—Athletic Director Clem Crowe of Xavier university announced today that Xavier and Ohio university have agreed on a home-and-home football series for this fall. Crowe said Xavier would play the Bobcats in Athens Oct. 9, with the second game scheduled here on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 25.

Pasha and Shapiro in Main Go at Armory Tonight

Tonight's wrestling bill at the Armory will feature Ali Pasha, the bearded Hindu, and Herman Shapiro, New York City grappler, in a two-hour main go.

Shapiro, now a [illegible] got his start in wrestling while in the Army as a physical director. His rival, Pasha, is an old hand at the game and packs a Cobra hold feared by his opponents. They know it as the "sleeper hold" because Pasha can apply it so vigorously that it sometimes gives his rivals an unexpected nap.

The one-hour semi-final will bring back the Phantom, a masked wrestler who last week took the place of Rufus Jones on the Marion bill. He will meet Larry "Babe" Kasaboski, a nimble man.

Joe Malch of Windsor, Canada, will make his Marion debut in the one-fall opener, matched with Nick Billins, the rough and tumble Greek.

U. S. Gas Trouble Raises Question of Hitler's Woes

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The rather startling debate in Washington over whether we are encountering difficulties with our supply of high octane aviation gasoline gives to wonder how our number one antipathy, Herr Hitler, is getting along with his fuel supply.

America is by far the world's greatest producer of petroleum and gasoline, and the biggest industrial nation. If we strike snags (or do we?) what must be the trials of the Hun whose supplies of oil—apart from what he piled up before the war and stole from occupied countries—come from the comparatively small production of the low-grade Rumanian wells and from synthetic processes applied to coal?

Use Lower Grade Fuel

Of course the Germans normally don't use 100 octane gasoline, which is for specially designed American engines. However, the problem of ordinary aviation gas still remains.

We don't know just what Hitler's gasoline resources are, but as long ago as last summer military experts noted indications the Nazis were running very short. The great storage of oil and gas which he made in preparation for the war, and the stocks he took from France and other ravaged countries, undoubtedly are depleted.

The Germans likely are making most of their lubricants and gasoline synthetically from coal. That's a slow and arduous process, for it takes a lot of coal to produce a gallon of oil, and much more for aviation gasoline. Probably the production of 100 octane in practical quanities would be out of the question.

Of course, the Nazis have built their airplane engines for a much lower grade of gasoline. They use a direct injection engine, that is, one without a carburetor. The result is that they get more power with their ordinary gasoline.

Still, figure it as you will, the oil experts feel fairly certain Hitler is suffering from a serious shortage of gas. That undoubtedly is one of the reasons why his air force has been lying doggo for months now. Not even the all-important North African show has drawn very much air strength from the continent, and thus far the Germans have taken the bombardment of western Europe lying down.

Luftwaffe Not Through

That doesn't mean, however that the luftwaffe is out of commission. What it presumably does mean is the fuehrer is conserving his depleted store of gasoline and other resources either for one more great offensive in an effort to achieve a killing, or for purely defensive purposes. Possibly he has both these things in mind, for it's a certainty that he is preparing to meet an allied invasion.

Oil men say that lack of high grade lubricating oil may be hampering Hitler about as much as the scarcity of gasoline. The Rumanian petroleum is too low grade for delicate machinery, so that the Nazis have to produce much of this from coal.

Some observers go so far as to claim that shortage of oil and gas will beat Hitler. There's no doubt that one of his chief objects in making his attacks on the Russian Caucasus was to reach oil, and if he makes an onslaught this spring it may easily be another drive against the Caucasian gateway to the petroleum fields.

Annual Music Program Set To Start at 10 A. M.

The ticket and program committee has already distributed many of the matinee tickets to senior class salesmen and preparations for evening ticket reservations have been made. The ushers have made extensive plans for seating arrangements and the publicity committee has been developing a persuasive system of publicizing the play. Other groups such as the costume, make-up, stage, properties, and prompter committees have been working at their respective jobs.

The play cast itself will have the initial Palace theater rehearsal Friday morning around 8 o'clock. They will practice important sections of the play before the school musical assembly begins at the theater at 10 a. m.

As usual the Harding orchestra will entertain the audience for both performances of the play next Wednesday before the curtain goes up and at intermission.

WHEAT PRICES HOLD GENERALLY FIRM

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 29 — Wheat prices generally held steady today, although activity was light as grain men devoted considerable attention to the soft coal controversy. Any weakening in the anti-inflation line toward labor, it was felt, might encourage congressional efforts for higher agricultural prices.

Trade reports said flour purchases by a leading Dallas chain baker yesterday amounted to between 350,000 and 400,000 barrels. It was said the demand for bread in the southwest had increased considerably, presumably reflecting in part an expansion in demand from military camps in that area.

BUYING REVIVAL LIFTS MARKET

Gains of a Fraction of a Point Are Well Distributed Today.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 29—Revival of buying gave favored stocks a great lift in today's market although many leaders were unable to do much on the progressive side.

Gains of fractions were well distributed near the fourth hour. The old Wall Street maxim of "never sell on strike news" again seemed applicable but brokers reported the coal labor situation continued to limit purchasing orders to some extent.

Railway bonds improved. Commodities were steady.

Among stocks getting into new high ground for the year were Studebaker, Willys-Overland, American Telephone, three Allegheny preferreds and Pennsylvania Coal. On the upside also were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Anaconda.

More corporation earnings reports came in for study but it was questionable whether most stocks concerned were affected to any considerable extent.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

IF RUTH HAYES could have seen the disgust in Jack's eyes and heard the venom in his words as he voiced his horror at having Katharine "breathe the same air," I do not think the "redheaded woman" would have been quite so complacent about her power over him as she was when she came to the [illegible] Katharine's inability to hold her husband.

But I had no time to study on Jack's anger against Ruth Hayes, so I quickly answered his question.

"No, Jack," I said, "She has not seen Katharine, nor will she if Hal and my father and I can prevent it."

I had purposely dropped Hal Meredith's name as bait, and he promptly snapped at it.

"What has Meredith got to do with it?" he asked, his voice almost a snarl.

"What anyone has to do with it who is interested in Katharine's welfare," I said. "Some one has to look after her," I added, with an air of guilelessness.

Jack Consents

"I suppose you mean by that crack that I am not looking after her," he said heavily.

"Well, are you?" I countered. "You will not even let her come here to see you."

He had been ranging up and down the room, but as I finished he dropped heavily into a chair.

"Well, you win!" he said. "You always do. Give me time to have Gus get this hair and beard in shape, then you may bring her down any time you wish."

I was careful not to show the heady triumph I felt.

"It [illegible] I [illegible] I told him, "it seems I [illegible] best. And I am [illegible] this that message back to Katharine. She [illegible] eating [illegible] [illegible]"

"I'm [illegible] devotion," he said [illegible].

"Probably not," I [illegible] but [illegible] Katharine thinks [illegible] [illegible]

Called by [illegible]

Before we could [illegible] there was a [illegible] knock upon the door, and when [illegible] opened it Gus, almost breathless from haste, thrust a message at me.

"Your father want you on the telephone, say for you to come quick," he said.

I dashed past Jack and through the door to the telephone, and always my thoughts flew first to my children at the farmhouse. Almost out of breath, I snatched up the receiver.

"Father!" I said, then gasped. "Has anything happened at the farm? Is everything all right?"

"Everything is all right," he said, then added sharply "Pull yourself together. I have work for you."

More Work for Madge

"I'm sorry," I said, obeying his injunction mentally and physically. "I'm all right now. What do you want me to do?"

"Get back to the hotel as soon as you can. But first, what success did you have on your mission?"

"The best," I told him, then, mindful that Jack was within hearing, I added "But I haven't time, have I, to tell you about it now?"

"Which means that you are not alone," my father said understandingly. "All right, that can wait. But get hold of Winters immediately, and have him hurry you up here as fast as is consistent with safety. Don't take any risks."

Chicory

SINCE IT seems to have become necessary for the American public to dilute its coffee, I have received a number of inquiries as to what chicory is. Chicory is one of those miserable and soulless plants with no ambition and no social standing—a mere creeper on the earth. It has, however, suddenly in this country been raised from the dignity of a weed to a food. Another name for it is succory.

In its wild state it is a native of Great Britain, found by roadsides. It would be. It has been cultivated more extensively, however, on the continent of Europe, especially in France. It has a long, fleshy tap-root, and this is the part that is used for an adulterant of, or an addition to coffee.

For this purpose the older, stout white roots are selected and after washing they are sliced into small pieces and dried. This material is then roasted until it assumes a deep brown color. When ground, it is in its external characteristics very like coffee, but according to my informants, "It is destitute of its pleasing, aromatic odor." That part of their account, at least, is perfectly true. I distrust and disagree with their praises of this ignominious pariah.

In some countries both the roots and leaves are used for salad and also for a fodder which is "greedily consumed by cattle." That also is an indication of its general adaptability and nutritive state.

Chicory has none of the pharmacological effects of coffee, or, in fact, any medicinal action of any kind. In other words, unlike caffeine, it does not stimulate the mind, or induce a sense of well-being, or help in the pressure of life. The only thing its best friends can say for it is that for over 100 years it has been successfully used as a substitute for, or recognized addition to coffee, while in the meantime innumerable other substitutes have been unsuccessfull tried for the same purpose—which indicates that it is agreeable and harmless.

"It gives coffee additional color, bitterness in body." Says you! It gives it additional bitterness, but it gives it no additional body and I will trade the color in for some more coffee.

In botany it is distinctly related to the endive. But the endive is a respectable member of the family and the next time anybody tries to pull some chicory on me I am going to suggest that they substitute some endive roots instead.

It used to be said for chicory that it was a mild laxative. But even this advantage has been dissipated by research in the department of pharmacology of Tulane university, which finds that chicory not only has no stimulating effect upon isolated strips of intestine, but even has a depressant effect. In short, instead of being mildly laxative, it is mildly constipating.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, April 30

WHILE THERE is a generally stimulating, expansive and gracious influence at work on this day, with opportunities for growth, progress, and productive operations in major fields, both financial and professional, yet peculiar situations or intrigues may tax the ingenuity, prudence and high purpose. Although there may be indications of promotion and preferment, snares and pitfalls may upset cherished plans.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate definite recognition and reward with tokens of appreciation and preferment. An astute, logical and sound mind, with imagination, vision and intuitive grasp of intrigues may manage to avert pitfalls. Shun impulsive and over-generous acts, in business and intimate affiliations.

A child born on this day although it may be endowed with exceptional ability, keen, shrewd and imaginative, equipped for high ambitions, yet it may be carried away by its generosity, kindliness and susceptibility.
